Home is where the art is

By STACEY E. STEVENS

WILMINGTON - Meeting Wilmington artist Marjorie Layman is reminiscent of looking at one of painter Thomas Kincaide's portraits of light. Her sweet spirit, gentle, sunny disposition and deep love of nature shine luminously through her smile and are evident in her art work, as well.

Marjorie grew up in Keene, New Hampshire. Ever a nature lover, she has always found fulfillment in painting themes that express that love, enhanced by drawing from her vivid imagination. When she was a youngster, she enjoyed camping expeditions out west with her father, who is a geologist.

Although she enjoyed art courses during her high school years, she

Shedding light on storm's outages

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Leonard Rucker, the General Manager at the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD), attended the March 12 Selectmen meeting and shed some light on the power outages that left many people in Wilmington in the dark during last week's monster snow storm.

"It was a storm for the record books," said Rucker of the blizzard that knocked out power in countless homes and neighborhoods throughout the community.

It didn't start out that way, said Rucker. RMLD first started taking the storm seriously on the morning of Monday, March 6. Throughout the day, the company received calls about a few fallen tree limbs "here and there." By Monday evening, the number of calls did increase as the snow began to fall heavier, but, recalled Rucker, the situation in Wilmington and its surrounding communities remained "nice and comfortable."

Then, at 9:21 a.m. on Tuesday the 7th, things got nasty. Electrical power to the National Grid transmission towers was disrupted, adversely affecting Wilmington and the other three towns that RMLD services. The region was dealt a colossal power outage when two transmission towers toppled along the transmission grid in Wakefield. When the three towers in Wakefield went down, it ricocheted into RMLD's North Reading substation. Lines in Tewksbury needed to be cut, so that all of new England would not be stuck in the dark.

This created an unprecedented hurdle for Rucker and his crews because before RMLD could even travel throughout Wilmington and get the power back on in individual homes and neighborhoods it had to first solve the problem with the two

Paret investigation "continuing"

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Selectman Michael McCoy is remaining steadfast in his belief that Wilmington Building Inspector Dan Paret should be held accountable if indeed an investigation into his job performance reveals incidents of favoritism and abuse of authority.

At the February 12 Selectmen meeting, McCoy attempted to bring before the board his allegations that Paret has practiced favoritism throughout the community and has misused his power and failed to properly enforce the community's zoning by-laws. Chairman Michael Newhouse suggested to McCoy that he should file a formal complaint against the building inspector with the town manager's office if he believed that wrongdoing has occurred. On the next day, McCoy did just that.

McCoy has vowed to address the subject of Paret during all upcoming Selectmen meetings, but when the board met on February 26 he let the issue pass because he wished to respect Town Manager Caira and give him the appropriate time and space to investigate the building inspector.

At the March 12 Selectmen meeting, though, McCoy returned to the topic and asked Town Manager Caira for an update on his investigation into Paret. Caira responded by saying that his probe is "continuing." Noting that the board had not voted to address the issue during the course of the meeting at hand, Caira informed McCoy that he will provide for him in private an update on his investigation by the end of this week.

After the meeting, McCoy shared his thoughts on the month that has passed since he asked for the investigation into Paret to begin.

"I hear it all the time," said McCoy. "People want to bring up the building inspector and the duties that he is doing, but they're afraid because he holds a very powerful position."

Noting that he represents 20,000 people in the community of Wilmington, McCoy says that he is bothered that "average citizens" have difficulty getting permits from the building inspector, but that the "elite" in town easily get what they want from him.

"It's really sad," said McCoy.

2001 Town Meeting at a glance

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - The blueprint for the community's upcoming April 28 town meeting has been made official.

At its March 12 meeting, the Board of Selectmen signed this year's warrant as it was presented to them by Town Manager Michael Caira. At 44 articles, it's a shorter warrant than the one that the town faced last year, but it introduces into the mix an equal opportunity of routine measures and cause for debate. In summary:

- ARTICLE 1 will formally recognize the victors in this year's election races for the seats available on the Board of Selectmen, the School Committee, the Housing Authority, the Redevelopment Authority and the Regional Vocational Technical School Committee.
- At last year's town meeting, there were not any committee reports to be made under ARTICLE 2, but this year there will be ones given by the Master Plan Committee and the Open Space and Recreation Committee.
- ARTICLE 3, which would have called for a vote to raise money for the purpose of paying the town's unpaid bills, will be passed over at this year's town meeting.
- ARTICLE 4 is a routine one in which a vote will be taken to determine if the Town Treasurer will be authorized, with the selectmen's approval, to borrow money from time to time.
- ARTICLE 5 will provide for an opportunity to vote on every line item in the proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2002.
- Will the town be able to purchase five replacement police cruisers, a fire rescue pumper truck and one diesel dump truck this year? Votes taken on ARTICLE 6 will determine the answer to these questions, which, cumulatively, will cost approximately $489,130.
- Votes taken on ARTICLE 7 will address whether or not $28,000 should be appropriated for such

WILMINGTON - What can you do with ten square feet?

If you're a business owner, then the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has multiple answers for you on that one: You can demonstrate your products, showcase your services, recruit employees, attract media attention and network with buyers and representatives.

Here's how.

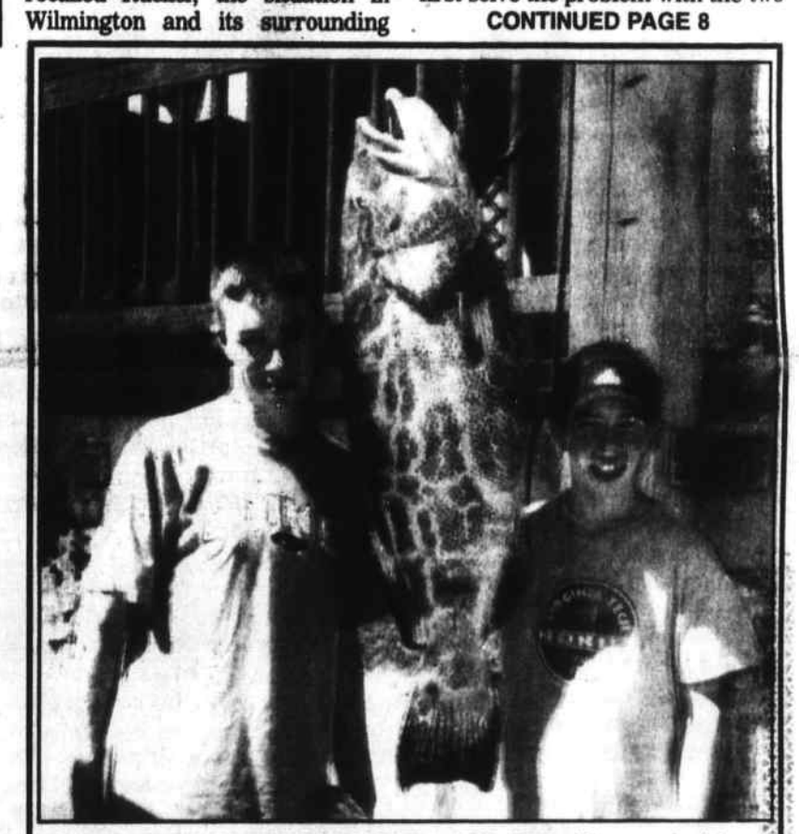

The Chamber of Commerce knows that Route 93 is more than just a fast track to Boston or a quick way to New Hampshire. It's also the home to a stretch of businesses from here in Wilmington and beyond.

That's why on Thursday, April 5, from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m., the Chamber of Commerce will be hosting its first I-93 Business Expo at the Shriner's Auditorium on Fordham Road in Wilmington. The event is being designed to highlight businesses along Route 93 and give companies an opportunity to exhibit their products and services and build bridges with buyers, sellers and fellow enterprises.

Says Susan Riley, the president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, "The success of this event will weigh heavily on the participation of businesses along I-93, and it is through this support that the Chamber can continue its efforts to provide programs and services that nourish our growing business community."

Of course, such prospects are

Open Space Plan

Preserving the town's character and culture

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON - With the intense rate of the development of land in Wilmington, concerns have intensified regarding the preservation of open space.

Over the last two years, the Open Space and Recreation Plan Committee has been working to draft an updated strategic plan to preserve open space for the community. The plan will be discussed at the Conservation Commission's regular meeting at the Town Hall on Wednesday, March 21.

The committee's plan is based on criteria established by the Massachusetts Department of Conservation Services (MDCS), which is part of the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs (EOEA). The details of the plan will be discussed in an open forum in which public opinion is welcomed and encouraged.

The committee hopes to have the plan ready for presentation at Town Meeting in April.

"The purpose of the plan is two-fold," says Assistant Director of Planning and Conservation John

"Obsolete" Upton Drive basin to be filled

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON - Most items on the agenda at the March 7 Conservation Commission meeting were continued due to weather-related problems, but the night was no less intense for the items that remained.

• UPTON DRIVE. The applicant, PGA Realty Trust, is requesting an Amended Order of Conditions to allow for the filling of an existing retention area. The retention area was constructed based upon subdivision plans submitted in 1990; however, those plans have been revised, making the retention basin obsolete.

Jim Fairweather, representing the applicant, discussed plans for filling the retention area. He indicated that the basin serves no purpose and is obsolete from an engineering point of view. He said that his client looking to fill it in and provide an alternative detention basin for storm water.

The commission reviewed the request and voted to accept it.

• MAPLE MEADOW LANDFILL. This Notice of Intent filing is to investigate two areas to the south of the "landfill" site, which is on the Boston Edison Company property.

The landfill, located off of Old Main Street, has been under investigation by the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) since March of 2000. Last June, DEP directed landowner Clarence Spinazola Trust to evaluate waste deposited within the wetlands located along its boundaries.

During the evaluation of the northern portion of the landfill, it was determined that the limit of solid waste extended into the Edison property. This NOI is for authorization for investigation of the south areas. Wetland areas will be disturbed during the investigation and temporary access roads may be constructed.

Assistant Director of Planning and Conservation John Keeley indicated that he still needs to check the riverfront delineation.

The commission voted to continue the meeting until March 21.

• FEDERAL STREET. A Notice of Intent was filed for the construction of a single-family dwelling with associated utilities, sewage disposal system and site grading. Although the lot is pre-existing, the subdivision of the property is not. The construction of the new house will be determined under current regulations.

Applicant Tom D'Errico indicated that under the current zoning regulations, his lot has the potential to be subdivided. His intent is to build a house for his mother. He also said that an alternative to building a house would be to sell the parcel to a developer. The subdivision application must receive approval from the Planning Board.

Mr. Keeley said that he still needs to check the wetland delineation, but that it appears that the construction of the house would be within eight feet of the wetlands. He also said that the plan needs more details and a surveyor's stamp. In addition, the property currently contains the septic system for a house on the adjacent lot.

"Our policy is that we'd like to see the house set back 25 feet from the wetlands," said Chairman James Morris.

The commission voted to continue the hearing until April 4th.

• SUMMER STREET. A Notice of Intent was filed for the construction of a single family dwelling, septic system, driveway and related grading within the 100-foot buffer of Bordering Vegetative Wetland. Richard Mede of Troy Mede & Associates presented his plans for the property to the commission. The Planning Board recently approved subdivision of the lot.

Mr. Keeley indicated that he still needs to check wetland delineation. He also said that he has a concern that the lot is a small yard that may have an effect on future encroachment of the wetlands, should the homeowner wish to expand construction.

The commission voted to continue the hearing until April 4th.

Highwood Drive project's traffic solutions get the green light

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

TEWKSBURY - At the March 12 Planning Board meeting, issues surrounding the Highwood Drive project were resolved, but Woburn Street still has a few more things to iron out.

486 WOBURN STREET. Traffic and landscaping were still the primary issues regarding the addition of a 14-bay building to the already busy site. The proposed landscaping plan was not available for presentation at the meeting, which made visualization of the finished site difficult. DeStefano Realty is the proponent of the plan. Attorney Richard O'Neill was also present as a representative. Woburn Street borders the property on the front, Lowell Street borders the rear and Highland and James Avenues frame the sides.

The weather has been a major impediment to the progress of the project, so the town's engineers have not been able to accurately assess solutions to the issues. Residents were at the meeting and voiced their concerns regarding landscaping and traffic. Planning Board member Robert Fowler expressed concerns about maintenance of the site once the plan was approved.

Drainage issues still remain and a letter from the Department of Public Works about drainage flow is pending. Fencing types and their positions as part of landscaping still need to be resolved. Inclusion of regulations in lease agreements with the tenants at the property and special conditions in the Certificate of Compliance still need to be decided.

The board voted to continue the meeting to March 26th.

HIGHWOOD DRIVE. The outstanding issues regarding traffic and parking were resolved and the board approved the Height Special Permit, Use Special Permit and Site Plan Special Permit with conditions for the new 90,305 square foot office building structure. Jim Fairweather, an engineer with Dana Perkins, Ken Graham and Attorney Richard O'Neill represented Yvonne Cormier, the applicant, at the hearing.

The Building Commissioner reviewed the By-Law regarding parking spaces and indicated that the board can choose to impart a one-space per 300-square-foot gross floor area or choose reserve parking. Based on the ratio of two floors of offices to one floor designed for research and development, the proponents suggested their figures of one-space-per-284 square-foot gross floor area. Attorney O'Neill indicated that the ratio will not change.

The traffic light issue was a little more difficult to resolve. Chairman Frank Sweet indicated that he met with the Highwood Drive Office Park owners, who were a little distressed at the turn of events. He said that they want to see restrictions on the easements along the property that allow access to Highwood Drive without sharing the costs of street maintenance. They contributed to the traffic signal fund, but want to see the lights installed within two years. Mr. Sweet said he asked Cracker Barrel to participate in funding the traffic signal and to work with the town and Highwood to see if their traffic problems could be mitigated.

Attorney O'Neill said his clients would not agree to have the maintenance condition in the permit, but that they would oversee the traffic signal project.

Some conditions of the permits were open space designations, traffic signals and parking.

BUSINESS TAX TIPS

Just like individuals, companies have the right not to pay any more taxes than they have to. One way to trip payroll taxes is to structure compensation carefully.

Consider an accountable expense plan covering advances and reimbursement of travel and entertainment costs. Workers must substantiate expenses and return any advances in a timely manner. But reimbursed expenses are not wages, so there's no income tax, Social Security or Medicare tax due from the firm. Employees do better by deducting business costs as miscellaneous expenses.

Flexible salary-reduction plans for health care or child care expenses can provide other savings for both company and workers. The amounts withheld are not subject to FICA or other taxes.

Where deferred-compensation bonuses are paid after retirement, FICA payment must be made when the bonus is earned. But if salary tops $80,400, no extra Social Security tax is due on the bonus.

We're tops for small-business accounting. Let us help you at

Selectman candidate Marsh says:

Demand the truth about Building Inspector Dan Paret

Dear Editor:

Let me begin my letter by saying that I have never met or dealt with Wilmington Building Inspector Dan Paret, but that I personally know a few people who have.

Have you ever seen the majority of the Board of Selectmen so quiet at a meeting?

As a longtime resident of Wilmington, I found it strange that when Selectman Michael McCoy brought up the issue of Building Inspector Dan Paret, a strange silence fell over the rest of the board.

What is the problem? Our elected officials should respond to complaints and allegations made about town employees.

If everyone in a position of authority were abiding by all of the rules and regulations of their positions, then there shouldn't be a problem with an investigation.

Most of Wilmington's selectmen seem to feel that the issue of Building Inspector Dan Paret is nonexistent. Why is that? What is wrong? Is there something that our selectmen are not telling us? Why are they making this situation a private matter?

I encourage readers of this newspaper to call the office of Town Manager Michael Caira at 658-3311 and ask why nothing is being done about Paret.

Our taxes pay for our town employees. We deserve to know the truth from them. Ask them for it, nag them for it, demand it!

Your voice is needed in this matter. Please help out.

Daryn Marsh

Letters to the Editor

Resident: West Street plans are flawed

Dear Editor:

At the February 20th meeting of the town's Planning Board, we heard traffic engineer Michael Abend describe the studies of the developers of the proposed office buildings at 100 and 114 West Street. Mr. Abend said that the plans were developed using acceptable methodology. I disagree. I question some of the assumptions that are being made in the planning for this project.

The developers have based their traffic plan on the assumption that the Massachusetts Highway Department will rebuild the intersection of Lowell and West Streets. This would be done in order to better accommodate the existing traffic and the addition of the traffic created by just these two projects. State Representative James Miceli stated at this meeting that if any funds come to relieve the traffic problems, then it will come many years from now, if at all.

The developers failed to consider the increase in traffic caused by the nearby Inwood Office Park. While it may have been difficult to quantify the increase in traffic coming from Reading, it was cavalier to ignore the office park entirely. The infrastructure of the office park is a reality. Occupancy will happen. The traffic that will be created by that office park will occur.

It is dangerous to ignore the fact that Inwood currently has a completely paved roadway, with bridges and sewer service. That sewer service exists today. The sewer service that will be used by the West Street office buildings exists only in the assumptions of the developers. The sewer service that the plans of the Gutierrez Partners and terra Nova Partners rely upon does not exist in reality, in plans or in anyone's reasonable expectations.

The plans for development along West Street are flawed. The Planning Board must act responsibly on behalf of the people of Wilmington and make sure that these shortsighted plans never become a reality.

Resident: Good will come from hospital land swap

Dear Editor:

I'd like to make a few comments about the proposed land swap deal between John D. Sullivan and the Tewksbury State Hospital to show my support of it.

I've recently heard some views that opposed the swap, citing "loss of open space," "loss of scenic views," "traffic," "opening the floodgates for more development of Tewksbury's State Land" and so on.

The land swap will be a major win for everyone:

Good Deal 1: Traffic will be put concentrated onto Livingston Street, which is a far less busy road than East Street, where over 50 accidents have happened in the last five years. Put this mess of a project directly on East Street and we'll have to have All State Insurance put up a kiosk at the entrance of the project to handle all the additional accidents that will be happening.

Good Deal 2: I'd like these few folks to think for a moment. The State Hospital is trading 19 acres of land for 27 acres! Yes, a lot of the 27 acres are wet, but most conservation land IS WET. What does it matter if it's wet or dry? It will be preserved as untouchable state land, possibly a park of some kind. We'll be saving 27 acres of wilderness, not "ledge," as the farmer who worked the land called the Livingston property. The 27 acres of East Street wilderness is home to Tewksbury's only vernal pools. Since the land the State Hospital will be getting is wet, it won't be built on. Only an ill-conceived affordable housing law would allow it to be built on as was being proposed.

Good Deal 3: Reduction of 5-stories to 2-stories. Tewksbury doesn't need anymore 5-story buildings. The more that get built, the more examples that other developers have to get their own new 5-story and higher buildings built. I have heard builders point this fact out at many a Planning Board meeting.

Good Deal 4: More housing for the elderly and people of moderate income. These homes will fit into the elderly housing that is currently on Livingston Street. Need I remind those seniors that live there currently that they wouldn't be living there now if it wasn't for affordable housing. The development will fit MUCH BETTER in that area of existing elderly housing. If it's built in the original place on East Street, we'll all get to enjoy six towering 5-story buildings along with the huge shadows they will throw over the existing neighborhood. And despite what these few swap detractors are saying, everyone will be able to see these huge buildings, not just the abutters who will live only 120 feet from them.

Good Deal 5: Why would it "open the flood gates" for more builders to take land from the state? It won't. This is being done purposely so the State Hospital can protect it's wellheads that supply all of its water.

Good Deal 6: Some people are proposing building 30 homes instead of the six 5-story buildings on East Street. Everyone seems to forget that the East Street land borders directly with a Tier 1A toxic waste site. I'm sorry, but I do not want to live near this piece of land after all the trees have been stripped off of it and a lot of the land has been dug up and torn apart. The trees serve as a buffer to the toxic waste that is sitting on that disgusting piece of toxic waste land. Tearing all that up is asking for trouble! I DO NOT want another Rocco's Dump Site on East Street! So is the state saying that it's OK to build affordable housing next to toxic waste sites? Sure seems to be. Also, for OVER A YEAR, the developer and his sidekick from the New England Fund, Bob Engler, has budged ZERO on how many units will go in sticking by their 288 units as "the number."

Yes, I know the disgust that most people have for the Sullivans, who are the builders in town. However, we need to look at what good will come from the swap.

Pumas to Chef's Table: Thanks for the sauce

Dear Editor:

On behalf of my sister, Sandy Murphy, the former Executive Director of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, and her family, I would like to publicly thank Janice Silva and her crew for their kindness and generosity in bailing me out of an embarrassing situation. After preparing a double batch of "sauce" to serve supper to our family between the wake hours of my great niece Cosette Churchwell's services, the large pan of sauce was accidentally dropped and spilled out onto the driveway!

What to do? We still had to get to Pepperell on time. The alternative was to stop at DeMoulas and buy jarred sauce. Instead, I thought, "Let's see if the Chef's table would sell me a couple of gallons of sauce." They not only had fresh sauce, but they very kindly put it in a large sealed container. They gave us their condolences and wished us well. No charge!

That's kindness and generosity. By the way, their sauce was delicious. Better then mine!

Thank you, thank you, thank you!

Sincerely,
Pat and Vinny Puma

Want a glimpse of the West Street to come? Go to Woburn

Dear Editor:

We would like to urge all concerned voters of Wilmington to please attend the following meetings at Town Hall to become more informed about the proposed construction of two office buildings on West Street:

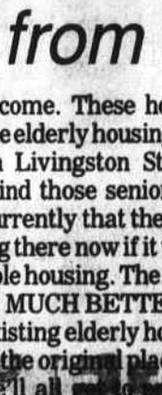

- The Conservation Commission will meet at 7:20 p.m. on Wednesday, March 21.
- The Water and Sewer Commission will meet on Thursday, March 29 at 5 p.m. The West Street concerns are on the agenda for 5:15 p.m.
- The Planning Board will meet on Tuesday, April 17 at 7:45 p.m.

Those who would like to see a vivid preview of what will happen to West Street from Lowell Street to the Reading Town Line if these projects go through have an opportunity to do so in Woburn. If you would like to see that preview, please do the following: Take a drive, from Reading, over the Washington Street Bridge over Route 128 in Woburn. The first right after the bridge will be a street named Olympia Way. On the left of this Way is a small neighborhood that consists of four streets. They are Hobson Avenue, Wainwright Avenue, Marietta Street and Oregon Avenue. All four streets and the residents who live there are effectively cut off from the rest of Woburn by the commercial developments there.

Now picture Suncrest Acres in the same predicament if Wilmington permits the construction of these two office buildings and the access to not only Industrial Way but also to Inwood Park.

Please say "NOT IN OUR TOWN!!!"

Yours truly,
Jon and Jessica Gibbs

Nelson bows out, endorses Palmer for selectman

Dear Supporters & Voters:

I have to thank my family, friends and the thousands of voters who have inspired and supported my campaigns over the last few years.

The efforts to cleanup Olin, the old town dumps and other distressed properties is very encouraging. The school system is vastly improved, and the public safety has been significantly upgraded.

Let us hope that the real issues continue to be on the forefront and addressed accordingly. Smart growth, water quality, expanding and improving our Open Space and Recreation (Silver Lake) and more controlled spending (no more debt exclusions and tax overrides) top the list.

It is almost impossible to unseat an incumbent. Mr. Bob Palmer is without a doubt the most qualified candidate to run in years. I will continue to update and improve the web site at WWW.NLSN.NET and plan on running again next year.

Sincerely
Mark Nelson

The following letter addressed to Wilmington Police Chief Bernard Nally was submitted to The Town Crier for publication.

Dear Chief Nally:

This is a very grateful note to let you know how great was the service given to us by our police department.

As my husband recently had a heart attack, I phoned the police station for assistance on our driveway and front stairs. We could not get to the car.

In no time, policemen Paul Chalifour and Jerry Lawrenson arrived and hand-shovelled our driveway and stairs and started our cars.

Thanks to a great Wilmington Police Department.

Gratefully,
Marion Woller

Seniors set sights on grad party

TEWKSBURY- It's a busy time for the seniors at Tewksbury Memorial High School, for they are receiving their college acceptances, finding their prom dresses and tuxedoes and getting ready to graduate in June.

For most of the seniors, they are happy about the change and are looking forward to spending their final days of high school cherishing the friendships that they have fostered throughout their childhood. In no time, they will be heading off to a new school with new people.

To celebrate this wonderful occasion, some of the parents in Tewksbury have gathered together to organize an all-night graduation party for the seniors in June. The party, which will take place on graduation night, will last from 10 p.m. until 5 a.m. The students will be checked into the high school and will embark on a night of fun and games. There will be all sorts of entertainment, including card games, jousting and even a hypnotist.

TMHS Graduate Jenna Grady, now a student at the University of Rhode Island, remembers last year's graduation party very well.

"We were all so excited about graduating that all we wanted to do was have fun," recalls Grady. "The all-night party was the way we did it. We were all together for the last time and having tons of fun."

Providence College student Nick Malley also fondly remembers last year's party.

"I wasn't too sure what it was going to be like," says Malley. "All my friends were going, so I decided to go to it. After I got there I realized just how fun it was. We all had a great time and I wish I could do it again."

Andrea Toland, now a student at Bentley College, says, "I will remember that night for a long time. I spent the rest of the week talking about how much fun that was and what a great time we had. Being hypnotized was a great experience. I still laugh when I think about it."

The parents of underclassmen, post-graduates and even children from the other schools will be chaperoning this event, but parents of seniors will not be allowed to attend, so as to give the graduates the space they need.

However, parents of seniors are encouraged to help out in all different ways, from organizing the party to cleaning up after the event. All help is welcome. Every person can play an important role in the event, due to the small size of the current program.

While sitting in on a February 15 meeting about the graduation party, one could see that there were only about fifteen parents who attended the meeting. Luckily for the class of 2001, this graduation party was continued, but it was nearly stopped this year due to the lack of contributions from parents.

Parents who wish to help this year are greatly appreciated because the mothers and fathers of graduating seniors want to see that this program stays alive for generations to come.

Parents are selling raffle calendars to help raise money for the festivities. Each calendar costs ten dollars and gives you the chance to win money in amounts from $25 to $100, depending on what calendar day your name is picked from the raffle. This is the program's main way of fund-raising, and it is also a great way to contribute to a good cause while also getting the chance to win something yourself.

The other form of fund-raising is made from local businesses, which are asked to make donations that can be given out as prizes. Throughout the party, gifts given to seniors -- what a wonderful gift it would be to find a gift certificate for your favorite store or restaurant.

Anyone interested in this year's graduation party is invited to join in on the Wednesday, March 21 meeting at 7 p.m. in the TMHS library.

WHERE IS THAT PESKY FIRE HYDRANT? - Wilmington DPW employee Kevin Burke was busy Tuesday driving about in a front end loader digging out fire hydrants all over town. Here he has found on between 7 and 9 Serenoa (off Woburn St.) which was buried under 4 feet of snow.

Where is your fire hydrant? Where will it be when the firefighters come to extinguish that small fire in your kitchen, seconds before it leaps to the whole house? Dig it out! Don't wait for the town to do it! (Stu Neilson photo)

By Larz F. Neilson

Captain Larz sure loved shoveling

My father, Captain Larz Neilson, loved to shovel snow.

In spite of admonitions from his wife, he would be out after every storm, shoveling. More than once, he would refuse to give up his shovel to a passerby who offered to do the chore for him.

There was almost nothing you could do to stop him from shoveling. He'd shovel out the driveway at home and then head for the Town Crier office. The office would be plowed already, but he'd go out and shovel anyway.

Shoveling probably helped him think, much as I thought of this piece while shoveling my own driveway here in Maine during last week's big storm.

After the blizzard of 1978, there was Captain Larz, at the end of his driveway, shoveling the waist-deep snow. My brother Stu and I would tell him to go into the house. We were going to take care of the driveway with the snow blower, even though the snow after that notorious storm was really too deep for that. The snow was well over the top of the snow blower opening.

"I'm not really shoveling," he answered us. Then he pointed to a large front-end loader parked nearby. "Eddie Deloury is having coffee with Dave across the street. I just want him to see me."

Eddie was a prominent local contractor. Back in the 1960s, he started out with a dump truck and a contract with the town to plow some streets in North Wilmington. By 1978, he had some serious equipment, and he had a contract for state highways.

Sure enough, before long, Eddie came out of Dave's house and hollered for Larz to get out of the way. Minutes later, our driveway was clear. Not only that, but the 12-foot blade of Eddie's plow trimmed back our overgrown forsythia, too.

Larz continued shoveling snow into his eighties. In fact, if you go down to Wildwood Cemetery, I won't guarantee that he hasn't been up shoveling a path to his grave.

Historical Society presents exhibit on "Farming in Tewksbury"

TEWKSBURY - The Tewksbury Historical Society was scheduled to present an annual exhibit March 12 through March 17 at Tewksbury Town Library. This year's show, entitled "Farming in Tewksbury" featured contributions made to the Historical Society's archives from several members and town residents. The show highlighted the first, oldest, and most prominent industry - farming.

The exhibit features several farms, the Carter Farm on Main Street and the Garland/Fuller Farm on Clarke Road. Historical Society member, Debbie Carter Bernard, has donated numerous pictures and artifacts from the Carter Farm. John Ferreira has loaned numerous photos and one oil painting of the old Fuller/Garland farm that was located where Route 495 is now.

Historical Society member Marietta Meloy has written a brief history of her Fondest Remembrances of growing up in North Tewksbury. Her writing, tape recorded so visitors to the exhibit will be able to play the recording and view various pictures and drawings of the remembrances she speaks about. Students from the Trahan and Heath Brook School, Historical Society Vice President, Dave Marcus and Ms. Meloy herself are working together to bring her experiences and remembrances of North Tewksbury to light. This trip back is to when Andover Street was a dirt road with carriage and trolley tracks. Swinging on the barn doors of the Martin Farm in the early 1900's and collecting horse chestnuts from trees which died out over a half Century ago show life in a very different Tewksbury from what we see today.

The show features artifacts donated by Mary Garland. Ms. Garland is presently living in Connecticut but was a public school teacher at the Foster School. Her father was a farmer and carnation grower in Tewksbury. The Tewksbury Historical Society is hoping to have numerous prints of Tewksbury farms from a collection of negatives loaned to the Society by Mrs. Elinor Haines. Her late husband Bob Haines, was a photographer and history buff. He was responsible for recording numerous Tewksbury historical sites and reproduced pictures of old pictures with his camera. Don Sullivan, Art Department leader at Tewksbury Memorial High School and several of his students are working on this collection.

The show includes the Lacy Farm where Native American artifacts were found. These are on display along with photos from the Lacy Farm. The show will be held from 3 to 9 p.m. March, 12, 13, 14, and 15. It will be shown on March 16 from 3 to 5 p.m. and on Saturday, March 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Tewksbury Public Library is located on the corner of Chandler and Main Streets (Route 38).

Educating the community through community education

TEWKSBURY - Tewksbury, plans to educate the community through community education.

An introduction to the personal computer (beginner's class) starts Monday, March 19 and meets for five consecutive Mondays from 4 to 6:30 or from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The program is open to residents and non-residents and registrations will be accepted by mail or in person from 9:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the high school.

For more information, contact Cynthia Basteri, Director of Community Services or Julie Fortier, Assistant at 978-640-7831.

Author Butler to discuss "Riddle" book

TEWKSBURY - The Tewksbury Public Library will present Pierce Butler, author of A Riddle of Stars, March 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the library meeting room. Author Butler will read passages from his novel about Matt Quigley, an immigrant from the west of Ireland. Butler's interwoven stories of Matt's experiences from his childhood on an island off the coast of Kerry, and as an immigrant in Boston, create a most interesting novel. Pierce Butler is a native of Waterford in Ireland.

All are invited to attend this free program.

repairs at the high school as the replacement of stair tread, the installation of electrical wiring, the replacement of exit doors, the refurbishment of restrooms and the painting of lockers.

• In continuing a program initiated last year, ARTICLE 8 will call for a vote to raise approximately $18,250 to replace lights at the Town Park and the Shawsheen School tennis courts. Last year, it was the lights at the high school tennis courts that were replaced.

• ARTICLE 9 addresses matters of child's play, calling for a vote to determine if $17,500 should be allotted for the construction of a playground at the Boutwell Early Childhood Center.

• In the interest of pollution control, ARTICLE 10 will provide an opportunity to vote for the development, implementation and enforcement of an $80,000 stormwater management program.

• If a sum of $250,000 under ARTICLE 11 will be approved by a vote, then the money will be used in conjunction with the same amount in set-aside water funds and receipts to develop a water management plan that will include a study of the environmental impact of water supply and wastewater services.

• A surplus exists in the account that was created for the construction of the new Middle School. ARTICLE 12 will give voters an opportunity to decide whether to transfer such monies to a renovation project at the high school.

• The town's snow and ice budget will benefit nicely if ARTICLE 13 is given a "go." Passage of this article, which is designed to address predicted shortfalls in the budget, would allow the town to transfer money to the departments and accounts that need it.

• ARTICLE 14 is another routine matter, calling for a vote that will appropriate money for the construction funds of the Department of Public Works.

• ARTICLE 15 is equally recognizable to veterans of town meetings, for it seeks to establish $5,000 for the observances of Memorial Day and Veterans Day.

• ARTICLE 16 proposes that a total of $2,250 be raised to renew the leases of the VFW Clubhouse, the headquarters for the Wilmington Marine Corps League and the American Legion Clubhouse.

• The town's Senior Citizen Tax Work-Off Program, which is entering its fifth year, is the subject of ARTICLE 17. A vote will be taken to approve a sum of $10,000 to keep this program in action.

• ARTICLE 18 is a familiar staple to any town meeting in that it calls for a vote to determine if the town will be able to apply for and accept grants from the United States government.

• ARTICLE 19 will address the routine matter of whether or not the Town Treasurer will be able to continue doing business with various banking institutions.

• Should Meadow Brook Road, Isabella Way, Baker Street, Summer Street, Marion Street III, Molloy Road and Moore Street be accepted as Town Ways? ARTICLE 20 will pave the way for town meeting attendants to go down that road.

• ARTICLES 21 and 22 will call for a vote to continue revolving funds concerning, respectively, the town's Compost Bin Recycling Program and the monies used to assist residents who are experiencing difficulties with their septic systems.

• Only one thing stands in the way between Kelly L. Reynolds and her hopes to take the Civil Service police department entrance exam and be eligible for a spot on the Wilmington force: ARTICLE 23. The passage of said article will allow Reynolds to take the exam.

• The details behind ARTICLE 24, which was submitted by the Master Plan Committee, will undergo much discussion before it finds itself facing a vote at Town Meeting. This effort to amend somewhat the Zoning Map of the Town of Wilmington will be the subject of a public hearing to held at the Town Hall on Tuesday, March 20.

• The Board of Health is hoping to make its mark at the town meeting with ARTICLE 25, which proposes a series of regulations for tattoo, or "body art," services that may come to Wilmington, now that state courts have asserted the legality of such enterprises. One of the regulations would classify such a business as "adult-oriented" and should therefore be confined to the appropriate district in town.

• ARTICLES 26 through 30 have been submitted to the town meeting by the Conservation Commission. All of them concern the transfer from the town to the commission the "care, custody, management and control" of properties near or within Parker Street, Randolph Road, Taft Road, Forest Street, Calumet Road, Winston Avenue, Avery Street, Cambridge Avenue, Medford Avenue, Buckingham Street, The Wildlife Sanctuary and the "Lost Colony", that little part of Wilmington accessable only through North Reading.

• ARTICLES 31 through 44 are petitioned articles, the most of which have not been reviewed by the town in their entirety. The opportunity for that will come on Tuesday, March 20, during a joint meeting to be held between the Finance Committee and Planning Board. Petitioners are encouraged to attend the meeting and outline for town officials what their proposed articles will accomplish.

All of the petitioned articles involve matters surrounding specific properties in town, found on streets from Lake Street, Brand Avenue and Norfolk Street to Cary Street, Burtt Road and Mink Run.

ARTICLE 35, in particular, calls for a vote in which petitioner Herbert Mason is asking the town to remove a 1978 deed restriction placed on his property on Westdale Avenue.

ARTICLE 38, which initially called for a vote to accept the layout of Parker Street as a Town Way, will be withdrawn at town meeting.

Residents and petitioners Mary and George Nelson have drafted ARTICLES 39 and 40 to address their hopes of amending the town's "Official Map" to include such private ways as Walnut Street, Page Street and Sharon Street.

ARTICLES 41, 43 and 44 are on the warrant in hopes that favorable Town Meeting votes will allow properties on Old Main Street, Factory Road and Route 62 to be rezoned.

Last, but not least, ARTICLE 42 seeks to eliminate Hammerhead Lots in Wilmington.

The April 28 town meeting, which will begin at 10:30 a.m., will be held in the gymnasium of the Wilmington High School on Church Street.

The admission ticket to town meeting is, of course, being a registered voter. The last day to register is Monday April 2, 2001. Call the town clrek's office at 658-3311 for further information. They'll be open until 8 p.m. that day.

RMLD sheds light on outages

transmission substations and four transmission lines that were down for the count.

"It knocked us flat on our back," said Rucker of the Tuesday morning setback. "There was no power to be had whatsoever. That has never happened. Ever. The nature of the storm completely changed, and suddenly we were in a high emergency situation."

It took twelve hours before the transmission problem was solved and RMLD was available to respond to reported and documented power outages.

By that point, all 24 phone lines at the Reading Municipal Light Department were ringing off the hook. Considering that RMLD services 80,000 people, it quickly became clear that more callers were receiving busy signals than were getting through to operators who could assist them.

Rucker told the selectmen that RMLD has a six-tiered list by which it prioritizes its responses to power outages. First, of course, the company must respond to transmission outages, a guideline that largely never needed to be followed until Tuesday. Secondly, RMLD addresses outages regarding "feeders," which transports power to substations. Thirdly, RMLD addresses large areas experiencing outages affecting a high number of people. From there, the electrical company fixes outages affecting medium areas, then smaller areas and, finally, individual homes.

In the case of last week's storms, all six components on that priority list needed attention. It was a task so large that Rucker called in additional crews to help from Braintree, Hingham, Rowley, Fall River and Western Massachusetts.

Between Tuesday morning and Friday, which is when RMLD finished restoring power to the areas that had lost it, Rucker says that RMLD received from customers a series of complaints that could be narrowed down into four categories:

• CONFLICTING/CONFUSING INFORMATION. Operators would answer customers' questions and concerns with information that was accurate at the time, but the volatile nature of the storm time and time again turned a situation inside out, creating an inescapable inconsistency.

• DISAGREEMENT OVER PRIORITIES. People stuck in homes without electricity proved to be not very fond of the aforementioned manner with which RMLD prioritized fixing the outages.

Rucker told the selectmen that he will work with his crews in the coming days to see if they can craft faster ways to respond to smaller and individual outages, but he also asserted that more crews would be part of the solution. Hiring contractors is difficult to do during storms because they're in high demand.

"The issue is getting feet out on the street," Rucker said.

• BUSY SIGNALS. Eighty thousand people trying to get through 24 phone lines proved to be impossible.

In response to a question by Selectman James Rooney, Rucker mentioned three routes that RMLD could take to eliminate this problem: sign on with "call centers," which are staffed with hundreds of contracted operators to whom customers' calls can be redirected; create large voice mail boxes; or develop recorded messages that would inform callers about various situations. Taking either one of the last two steps would call for a change in RMLD's core philosophy, in which the company prides itself in human interaction between customers and employees.

• NO LINE TRUCKS WERE IN SIGHT. Many customers called RMLD and complained that their power was out and line trucks were nowhere in sight to fix the problem. Such grievances were based in a lack of understanding because many homes receive their power from a circuit that stretches miles from their residence. A circuit could go down in one location and literally knock the power out of a home two towns over. It is to the damaged circuit, not the affected home or neighborhood, that crews must travel to fix the problem.

Said Rucker, "If you don't see a line truck in your neighborhood, it does not mean that we're not working on your outage."

During inclement weather, RMLD crews work a limit of thirty hours. At that point, they are required to punch out on the clock and catch a few hours of sleep. Rucker says that the transmission problem at the onset of the storm threw everything off because crews were twelve hours into their 30-hour shift before they could attend to the massive number of outages throughout the community.

"At the 30-hour mark, people were dead on their feet," said Rucker. "At one point we realized that this was not a normal storm. We knew it was going to be a long one."

Rucker informed the board that RMLD has a system that works effectively during storms of normal and ordinary duration. This storm, however, was gargantuan in its duration, so it did manage to reveal a few flaws in the company's approach. Rucker concluded his presentation by saying that he and his employees will be meeting in the days and weeks to come to discuss what was learned from the storm that is, unquestionably, destined for "the record books."

Preserving the town's character

Keeley.

First of all, says Keeley, is the fact that the plan is a requirement for the town to become eligible to receive grants from the EOEA for land acquisition. In addition to Town Meeting approval, the plan must be approved by MDCS.

Secondly, Keeley says that it is a good planning tool to help the town determine its priorities in protecting and acquiring open space for a variety of purposes. He mentions that acquired land could be suitable for recreational uses, such as ball fields or parks, or for the purposes of preserving wildlife, which would include conservation land or forests.

Mr. Keeley indicates that the plan includes sections on Community Setting, Environmental Inventory and Analysis, Inventory of Lands of Conservation and Recreation Interest, an Analysis of Needs, Goals and Objectives and a Five-Year Action Plan.

The Open Space and Recreation Plan Committee was appointed by Town Manager Michael Caira in February of 1999. It is comprised of sixteen members, including town officials. The members have a vested interest in Wilmington and share a desire to protect open space and promote recreational opportunities for the community.

In July of 1999, the committee designed a survey in an attempt to gauge residents' attitudes regarding open space, recreational facilities, growth and community character. Data was compiled from approximately 1,500 returned surveys. Results indicated that citizens were concerned about the loss of open space as it related to drinking water protection, the town's character, greenspace and wildlife.

The results reinforced the goals that the committee set for itself and encouraged the development of the plan it will present on the 21st. Such goals include protecting, preserving and enhancing open space; developing a plan to protect groundwater; continuing to develop park and recreation facilities; and preserving Wilmington's cultural, historic and ecological heritage and character.

Once implemented, Mr. Keeley suggests, the plan will help contribute to the preservation of open space in Wilmington before it disappears.

did not pursue it as a serious interest until her late twenties. She started out as an anthropology student at the University of New Hampshire, but eventually changed majors, graduating with a Bachelor of Science in Plant Biology.

After graduation, Marjorie combined her visual talents with her love of nature by working for a while in the plantscaping business. However, she discovered that there wasn't much money to be made there. Her college roommate, art major Kate Finnegan, who went on to become an administrator for Kaji Aso Studio Institute for the Fine Arts in Boston, exhorted her to resume her art by honing her talents there.

Says Marjorie, "For a long while, I felt as though there was something missing in my life, but I wasn't sure what it was. By painting scenes from nature, I was able to recapture the missing pieces."

Marjorie has been taking watercolor classes at Kasi Aso Studios for twelve years and has been working with acrylics for the past four. She occasionally dabbles in pastels, which have more of a drawn look due to the chalk-like powdered base and the high concentration of the pigments.

She has been exhibiting her work at Gallery Nature & Temptation over the past ten years and has been a participant in the Wilmington Council for the Arts' annual competition/exhibition for the past three.

As a member of Kasi Aso Studio's student group, she once traveled on a two-week excursion to Italy, where the class exhibited its work at the prestigious Padua city gallery.

In addition to serving on the studio's Board of Trustees, she serves on the committee whose job it is to organize gallery exhibits. She also instructs a Saturday sketching, drawing and watercolor workshop along with Finnegan, her friend and colleague.

Describing herself as "an impressionist artist with leanings toward the abstract," Marjorie draws much of her inspiration from the styles of Claude Monet and Pierre Auguste Renoir. She also admires the work of renowned Navajo lithographer R.C. Gorman and 1920s illustrator Maxfield Parrish.

She draws and paints from nature, photographs and her imagination. Prevalent among her favorite subjects are seascapes from Rockport, the Arizona desert, New England forests and scenes from local lakes and ponds. She enjoys painting pictures of still life, cats, swans, flowers, lily pads, skyscapes and fantasy scenes.

"It gives me a happy feeling to express my deep appreciation of nature by bringing out the natural essence of a flower or a beautiful sunset," comments Marjorie. "The Kasi Aso philosophy advocates the purist technique of drawing separately from painting, as opposed to drawing and then painting over it, so that one can see the contrasting darks and lights and varying depths."

Continues Marjorie, "When I paint from a photograph, or even from nature, I don't attempt to duplicate the exact image that I see because when you paint something exactly the way it appears, the finished product tends to have a flat appearance, rather then capturing the nuances of light and shadow, texture and depth. I then embellish the work even further, using colors from my own imagination, in order to enhance the painting and give it more of a personal meaning."

According to Marjorie, watercolor painting is more difficult than painting with acrylics because it involves the delicate technique of controlling the water so that the various colors shine through in layers and achieve the desired effect of softness and depth. With acrylic painting, a similar effect can be achieved by using a technique known as "glazing," in which several thin layers of paint are applied, leaving a multi-layered, translucent effect. With watercolor painting, white space is left blank rather than painted in, so it takes some advance planning when deciding where to leave the paper blank because every stroke shows.

Marjorie also enjoys the less structured form of abstract painting, in which "you attempt the same thing three or more times, until you get past your own inhibitions, and then it just flows."

Marjorie also enjoys sumi painting, a type of poetic calligraphy which involves sitting on the floor and painting Japanese characters with ink. It begins with a period of meditation, followed by ten minutes worth of grinding the solid ink sticks with a special tool containing a well of water, which gives the ink its fluidity. As with watercolor painting, the artist must plan quite a bit before applying the brush to the surface, because every stroke, and therefore every mistake, is evident. The finished characters exude a certain energy, which gives them the appearance of "dancing."

Marjorie has also tried her hand at batik, a type of painting on fabric with wax, in which the wax must be allowed to dry. It is then removed and dye is applied.

Currently employed as a technical writer for Parexel International, a Waltham-based pharmaceutical research firm, Marjorie shares her Pouliot Place home with her three cats, Bob, Jake, and Zoe. She enjoys caring for plants, practicing yoga, composing haiku and walking along the beach. She is a frequent visitor to Silver Lake. She also enjoys music and hopes to learn to play the piano some day.

"I like Wilmington because it's woodsy enough to remind me of the forests of my home state of New Hampshire, yet it is a reasonable commute from the studio in Boston."

She goes into the studio once or twice a week and continues "painting in my head" at home. She enjoys the casual, informal atmosphere of open-house exhibits, as well as doing more focused, individualized exhibits. She likes listening to people's feedback and reactions to her work and appreciates the fact that each piece means something unique and personal to each observer.

You can get to know both Marjorie and her art at a reception from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday, March 24th at Gallery Nature & Temptation, which is a part of Kasi Aso Studio and Institute for the Fine Arts at 40 Saint Stephen Street in Boston. The exhibit continues through April 6th.

Paret investigation

"There are 600 streets in this town. At the last meeting I tried to bring up things going on on one street. What's going on with the other 599 streets in the community that we're not aware of?"

McCoy also says that he is not expecting any support from his fellow selectmen any time soon.

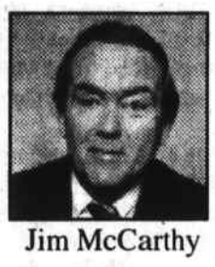

Says McCoy, "Let's face it. A couple of the members on the Board of Selectmen are connected to the building community here in town. That's where their loyalty is."

McCoy has stated that if he is not satisfied with the conclusions of Town Manager Caira's investigation, then he will likely bring his allegations against Paret before the State Ethics Commission.

Messages left for Building Inspector Paret by the Town Crier were not returned.

ANGRY AT GOD

It might seem blasphemous to be angry at God, but this emotion is felt by most individuals as they struggle with their grief. Anger is a normal part of the grieving process. When we feel anger in the face of death, we should confront our feelings and not feel guilty about the measure of passion that we feel toward out loved ones, ourselves, and God. As much as it may be difficult to deal with anger, we should give it voice, in prayer, if necessary. In doing so, we can work through our anger and arrive at the peace that accompanies acceptance.

Although it is difficult to remember in troubled times, when the anger subsides giving way to grief, peace will eventually follow. At Farmer & Dee Funeral Home, we can assist you in your time of need by taking care of details. We take pride in taking every personality into account when we assist in planning a funeral or burial. If you have questions about us, call anytime at 851-7411.

Local anti-smoking campaign takes a page from Hollywood

WILMINGTON - Northeast Tobacco Control Programs are taking their message to television. When a recent survey showed that many teens get their cigarettes by asking adults to buy for them, local tobacco control programs looked for a creative way to address the problem. Working with a video development company they created an ad starring two area teens to raise awareness about the issue.

Funded by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, the Northeast Tobacco Control Programs have created a strong message to educate the public, hoping to change this trend and decrease youth smoking.

Expected to debut on television by mid-March, the 30-second public service announcement is being produced by MediaRight, Inc. of Groveland. Wilmington residents will see the ad on New England Cable News and Lifetime.

MISSION CONTROL TO WOLF DEN ONE. These Wilmington Wolf Scouts, of Pack 361 of Den One, recently took a trip to the Lawrence Airport Control Tower, where Air Traffic Controller Bob Barry gave them a tour. It was a busy day for these second graders, for earlier in the day they had attended the Pinewood Derby that was held at the United Methodist Church. Kneeling in the picture above are Sean Woodbury, left, and John Arvantis, right. From left to right in the middle row are Jimmy Johnston, Danny Robinson and Marc Webber. In the back row, from left to right, are Geoff MacDonald, Matt Brophy, Mr. Barry and Joe Guarnaccia. (Courtesy photo)

Division 2 Hockey

Falcons soar high past 'Cats in semi-finals

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The top seeded Wilmington High ice hockey team's winning ways came to a halt just 25 seconds into their Division 2 North Sectional semi-final match-up against the fifth seed Danvers (15-4-3) last Thursday night held at the Chelmsford Forum.

The high flying physical Danvers squad jumped out to a 1-0 lead just 25 seconds into the game and then a 5-0 lead mid-way through the third period on their way to an 5-2 victory which eliminated the Wildcats from further play.

"That first goal really rattled us," said coach Steve Scanlon. "We were very uncomposed after that. I think that period was one of the worst periods we've played in the last three years. We seemed very tentative. But on the other hand Danvers was a very good, quick and physical team. I thought their defense controlled the game, and we didn't shoot the puck either."

Danvers' Bryan Duggan simply dominated the first period. He scored the first goal from the right side on a tough angle just 25 seconds in and he followed that up with another killer scoring a goal with 22 seconds left in the period making it 2-0. In the period, Danvers outshot Wilmington 16-3 with Duggan accounting for seven of his team's 16 shots on goaltender Joe Luciano who was certainly busy.

"If they didn't get that second goal, maybe things might have been different," said Scanlon. "But a goal like that hurts you emotionally heading into the locker room."

Danvers added a single tally in the middle period, before adding two more in the early goings of the third period. Wilmington did get on the scoreboard late in the game when senior Dave Hanley and junior John Conley netted goals. Luciano ended the game with 36 saves.

"I don't think we played well," said Scanlon. "Danvers certainly is a very good team but we didn't quit. Danvers was doing things that we should have been doing – they were blocking shots, they were diving for loose pucks and so on. We didn't do those things.

"Our scouting report was that Danvers was very undisciplined. We counted on that and there were only two penalties in the entire game. They also had a great scouting report on us. They were very physical on Mike Whitney, taking him out. They realized that he is the engine of that line."

Wilmington finished the season at 16-5-1 overall, including winning the Cape Ann League, and a playoff game over Newburyport.

"We had a great year, we really did," said Scanlon. "I don't think anyone predicted us to be the sectional semi-finals, to win 16 games and to win the league again. When you lose a tournament game you at least have something and we have the league title. The seniors on this team leave with a lot. They have an incredible amount of wins with 19, 15 and 16. They were a fun group to coach."

THE WILMINGTON HIGH WINTER CHEERLEADING TEAM brought home the school's first Division 2 North Sectional crown on Sunday at the competition held at Lowell High. Cheerleaders make history at sectional competition

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Cheerleading has become much more competitive in the last five or six years in the state of Massachusetts. Here in Wilmington, cheerleading competitions have leaped a few notches, and this past weekend the sport exceeded all expectations.

After years and years of the Pop Warner teams doing very well at the state, New England and National competitions, the Wilmington High girls' basketball cheerleading team made history themselves on Sunday afternoon at Lowell High School.

The team, coached by Nancy Sullivan, took first place at the Division 2 North Sectionals, beating out several very good teams including Shawsheen Tech. Wilmington scored 234 points out of a possible 300 and that was good for the top spot in their division.

Wilmington will now compete for the state meet this Sunday at Lowell High School. If the team places either first or second, or score over 240 points they will qualify for the High School National competition to be held in Jacksonville, Florida. The week before, Wilmington took the Cape Ann League crown scoring 243 points.

"We expected that if the girls nailed it they could win it," said Sullivan. "They nailed their stunts but had trouble on their tumbling because two of the girls were sick. But besides that they did fairly well. Now all we have to do is tighten up a bit for states this Sunday."

Sullivan said she hopes the school will recognize the girls' accomplishment with a banner in the school's gymnasium.

"Well some people don't think [cheerleading] is a sport, but we're the only team left [of the winter season] going to states," she said.

Last year Wilmington took second in the section, and third in the states. Now with the Cape Ann League crown and the North Sectional crown, this year's team would like to make it a trifecta this Sunday afternoon.

"We're really nervous [about the states]," said senior Megan Ballou. "We're going to change things up a bit, especially our ending [for Sunday]."

As for this their routine at Sunday's competition, the girls exceeded because of their stunts, dance moves, cheering, acrobatics, stales and scorpions.

"No, we didn't expect it," said Ballou, while senior Victoria Badolato added, "but yes we were shocked [by winning it]."

Another senior Katie DuLong said as good as it was winning the title, beating other schools such as Shawsheen Tech made it even better.

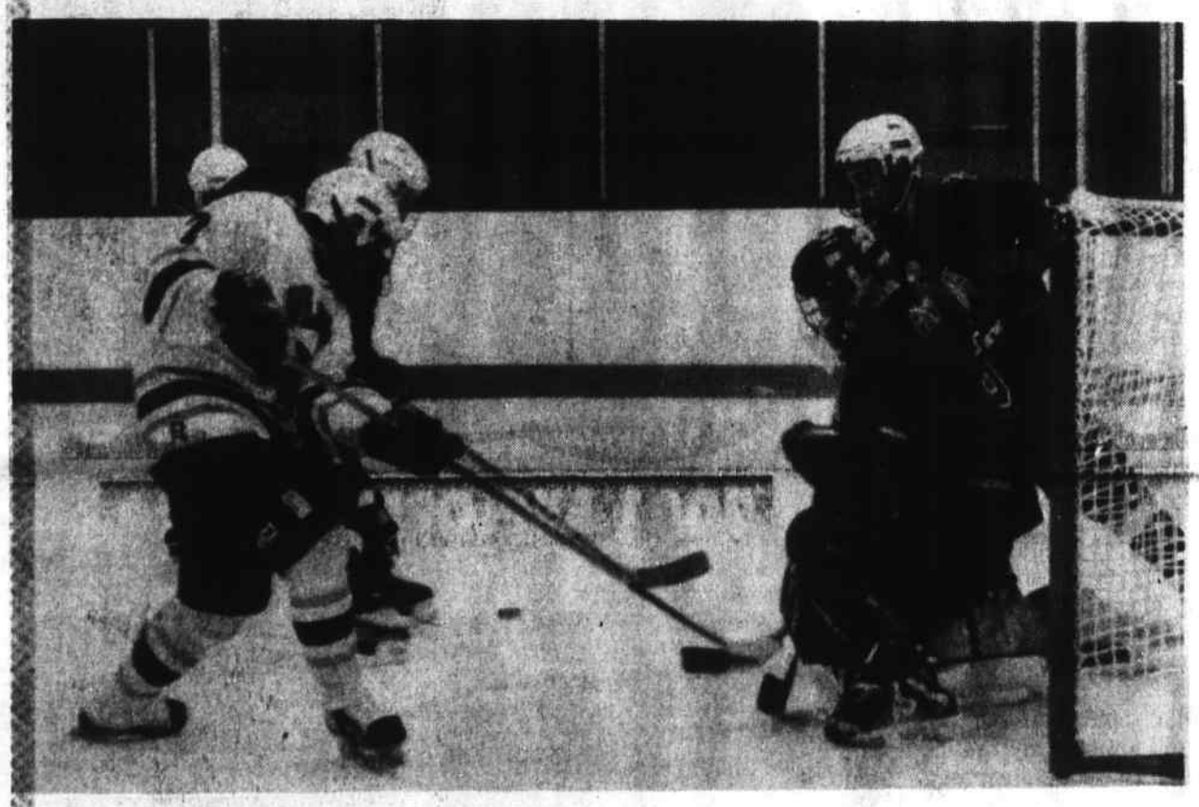

The girls danced to an "upbeat 90's mix" of music including tunes from Bon Jovi and Britney Spears, and they said that of all their moves the stunting is the hardest.

"It takes a lot of strength," said senior Brianna Daisy, while, Lauren Gauthier added, "and a lot of energy."

The girls scored very high in almost all of the criteria and expect to do even better this Sunday. Chicopee is the favorite to win it all, but Wilmington is certainly up there as well to score high both as a team, and for placing. Sullivan says a lot of the success for her program has come from the Pop Warner program, while, she says today there's a lot more for cheerleading and that's why it has become so competitive.

"Now instead of just going to the games and cheering, now the girls have something to accomplish," she said.

Other members of the team include: Tara Binkoski, Kristie Crampton, Andrea DiPasquale, Tricia Fennelly, Kristen Fraser, Tara Insalaco, Shannon Loring, Nicole Minghella, Jenna Ruggeiro, Stacey Soroka, Keri Terranova and Kara Weeden.

Sixth graders continue hot trend

The Wilmington Sixth grade boys basketball team extended their overall record to 28-3 with a non-league win over Ipswich on Saturday.

Although it was a non-league game, it promised to be a good one as Ipswich came into the game with an 19-1 record. Ipswich came out quickly, taking a 6-2 lead. Wilmington had some trouble getting started as they have a number of times this year. Nick Duggan got the offense rolling with a couple of big hoops. Brendan DeMango and Mike Thomas chipped in with four huge points. Four minutes into the game the Wildcats had tied it up.

Pressure defense has been the Wildcats trademark this year and this game would be no different. Dan Patterson led the defensive charge with a number of steals. The Wildcats converted their steals into big points. Tim Kent, 12 points and Greg Stewart, game high 15 points, helped the Wildcats pull away. Wilmington took a commanding 31-15 lead into the locker room.

Ipswich made some adjustments at halftime and came out ready to play. They cut the led to 11 after just a few minutes. Wilmington let them get no closer. Kyle Borseti set up Rich Barry's seven points, for a few clutch hoops. Pat Ryan, six points and Josh Mayo, four points, closed this one out as Wilmington went on to a 54-38 victory.

The boys close out their season next week with the MVC playoffs in Salem, N.H.

Tildsley guides Warriors to fantastic season

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Former Wilmington High School girl's basketball coach Jim Tildsley – who also just was enshrined into the WHS Hall of Fame as an athlete this past November – has had great success at the coach of the Andover High girls team but unfortunately his season came to end on Saturday night.

The Assistant Principal of the Middle School here in Wilmington saw his Lady Warriors squad lose to Somerville, 62-41, at the Tsongas Arena in a Division 1 North Sectional Final.

"Somerville is a great team," he said after the loss. "They were the better team tonight. They have seven seniors on their team, and we have one who starts. I think the difference in the game was the tournament experience."

Tildsley graduated from WHS in 1969 with 9 total letters between football, basketball and baseball. He then went on to North Adams State College to play baseball and basketball. He came back to Wilmington thereafter to become an assistant football coach under his friend Eddie Harrison as well as coaching the boys basketball team for several years.

Tildsley took a few years off from basketball and he returned to WHS to coach the girl's team for the 1994-'95 and '95-'96 seasons with both teams earning a spot into the state tournament.

Through that time he's also had several nephews who have excelled in sports at WHS including Brian, Marty and now sophomore Ryan.

After his second season he resigned from Wilmington to take the same job at Andover, the town which he and his family reside. Two years later in 1998, his Warriors team won a Division 1 State Championship and have had tremendous success since.

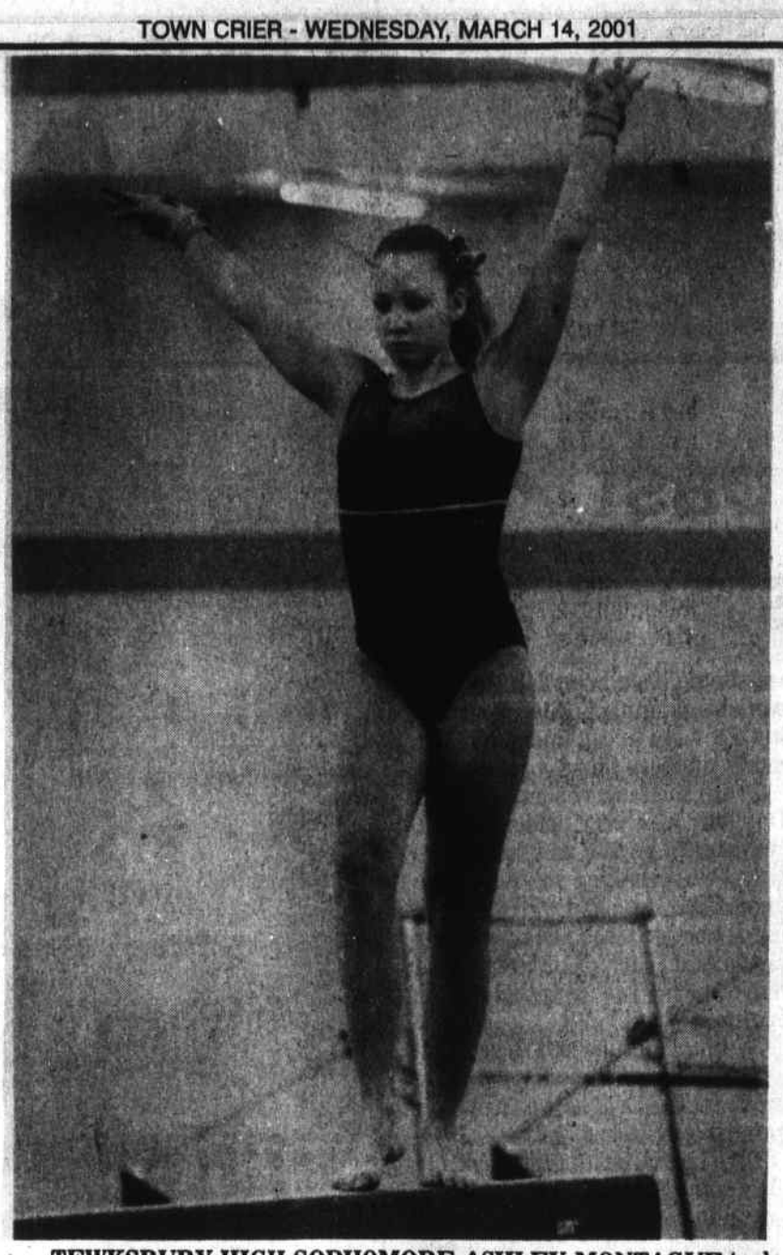

This year is a great example of that. His team finished at 21-3 overall with just one starting senior. Two of the team's three losses came against Somerville. His team won yet another Merrimack Valley crown beating terrific teams such as Methuen, Chelmsford and Lowell.

Then came the state tournament and Andover was the second seed and drew a bye in the first round. Then they met up with Waltham in the quarterfinals and beat them, only to defeat Woburn in the semifinals setting up the sectional final against Somerville.

Andover jumped out to an 17-12 lead in the first 9:30 of the game but suddenly Somerville ended the first half on an 20-3 run and started the second half on an 7-2 run, opening the lead to double digits and Andover couldn't climb out of the hole.

"We just couldn't get any momentum during that stretch," said Tildsley. "But we never quit. The girls never did and they should be proud. They had an excellent season."

And Jim Tildsley did an excellent job of guiding them through yet another fantastic season.

Jon See comes up big for Mite D's

Wilmington Mite D's recently played Reading at the Ristuccia. It was a good game which ended in a 1-1 tie.

Reading scored first getting on the board early in the game. That goal held until the third period. Wilmington's Jon See scored with only a couple of minutes left in the game.

Goalie Tyler Stillings allowed only the early goal, then he stopped everything else he faced.

Wilmington had a lot of quality shots on net but Reading's goalie made some big saves. Wilmington also played well on defense keeping Reading from spending too much time in our end. It was a great team effort.

On Saturday March 10, the Mite D's traveled to Brooks Academy to play North Andover. The trip was worth it as Wilmington beat North Andover 7-2.

Wilmington started out slow getting behind 2-1 after the first period. It was a sloppy start but they pulled themselves together and took control of the game.

Jon See had four goals. Scott Deronde had two and Chris Ryan got one. I'm sure the North Andover goalie had nightmares of Jon See coming at him. He had a couple of goals that looked like penalty shots. Jon came across the line and it was just him and the goalie; he faked shot and scored.

The offense was amazing, the passing and movement of the puck in the offensive zone was super. Playing offense for the game were Jon See, Cori Michals, Eddie Sheridan, Scott Deronde, Adam Martiniello, Chris Ryan, Brenden Munro, Nick Pino and Tyler MacInnis.

The defense helped the offense by getting the puck out of their zone to center ice so they could do their magic. They also had their hands full with North Andover swarming around the net. Ryan Brothers, John Langenfeld, Frankie Mearls, Brian Good and Tommy Shafer did a great job on defense. If a North Andover player got by on one side the other defenseman would cut across and break up the play. There were no penalty type shots for North Andover.

Tyler Stillings played net for Wilmington. He showed some real courage by diving in a group of players in front of the net to cover up the puck on more than one occasion. It took a lot of concentration to keep track of the puck between all those skates. A couple goals got by Tyler early but he shut the doors on them for the rest of the game.

Joe Aucoin who wasn't feeling well cheered the team from the stands. His ability to dig the puck out of the corner will be needed for our next Valley League game against first place S+S, a B team.

And Brian Tildsley keeps up the name

Former Wilmington High School athlete Brian Tildsley has just completed his second season as the head wrestling coach for Minuteman Vocational High School in Lexington.

Minuteman had a solid 11-9-1 duel meet record and placed only the second wrestler in school history at the Division II State Tournament. Brian's assistants are former Shawsheen Tech athletes Kevin and Jason Tildsley.

College Notebook filled with hockey stars

Shaun Durkin of Tewksbury, a sophomore defenseman on the Curry College Ice Hockey Team, has played in 21 of 22 games. He ended the season with two total points, both coming from assists. Durkin attended Tewksbury Memorial High School and is a member of the Curry's Class of 2003, and is majoring in business.

Freshman Daniel Torpey of Wilmington, also plays for the Colonels.

The Curry College ice hockey team recently concluded play for the 2000-2001 season. The Colonels posted a 4-17-1 record overall and a 3-13-1 mark in ECAC Northeast play. Head Coach Rob Davies' squad finished strong, winning three of its final four contests.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) has announced its 2000-2001 Northeast Division Hockey All-Stars, as well as its Player of the Year, Rookie of the Year, Goalie of the Year, and Coach of the Year. Three members of the Tufts University Jumbos squad, and head coach Brian Murphy, were honored.

Senior tri-captain Dan Mahoney of Tewksbury was honored as a member of the All-ECAC First Team on defense for the second straight year. The anchor of the team's solid defensive unit (3.36 goals against), Mahoney had the best offensive year of his career scoring 27 points on 10 goals (four powerplay) and 17 assists. He was the second leading defenseman scorer with 21 points on eight goals and 13 assists in league play. He scored a season-high three points on a goal and two assists including the game-winner to sophomore Mike Carceo with 31 seconds remaining in overtime - in the Jumbos' crucial 6-5 victory over Johnson & Wales on January 21. He also set up a game-winning OT goal by Carceo versus Plymouth State on February.

Head coach Brian Murphy, a 1995 Tufts graduate and a native of Arlington, was honored as ECAC Northeast Co-Coach of the Year with Johnson & Wales' Lou Izzi. Coach Murphy led the Jumbos to a regular season first place finish with a 15-1-1 league record. They were the top seed heading into the ECAC Northeast Tournament. The team's 17-6-1 overall record was the best at Tufts since the 1987-88 season. Coach Murphy has compiled a 43-26-3 record in three seasons as head coach at Tufts.

Beginning in 2001-2002, the Jumbos will compete in the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC)/ECAC East League, the most competitive in the nation. The Jumbos hope to continue this season's success and capitalize on their young core of talent as they enter the NESCAC next year.

[Coming next week: A feature on Tewksbury's Joe Perna, who helped Western New England to a Division 3 state championship.

If you know of any other locals from Wilmington or Tewksbury who will be competing on collegiate athletic teams for the spring season give Jamie Pote a call at 658-2346.]

A lot of pain and a lot of gain for Montague

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

While she does numerous somersaults, flips and maneuvers around the mat, Ashley Montague feels gruesome pain in her back, but still tumbles around the mat despite her two cracked bones in her back.

As if that's not impressive enough of how much dedication and love the Tewksbury High sophomore has for the sport of gymnastics, she topped that. While being only about 50 percent, while having two cracked bones in her back which has intensely gotten worse as she has gotten older, Montague took first in the entire state in the floor exercise with an 9.0 at the state individual gymnastics meet held at Lincoln-Sudbury.

Montague is now the two-time state champion in the floor exercise. Last year she was also the runner-up in the vault, and placed within the top in the beam. This year, because of her back injury, she decided to just do the floor exercise.

"The doctors think that I was born with it," she said. "But they still don't know. There's no way it's going to heal unless I have surgery on it. Yeah, it's a lot of pain. I jammed [my back] on a landing but I was able to keep going. It hurts a lot, but I take a lot of advil, that's my thing."

All throughout this past winter season as a member of the TMHS gymnastics team, Montague had the injury. She said at many of the meets it became very difficult for her to perform, nevermind get the scores she is capable of getting.

"Sometimes I think [that it's not worth it], but I'm probably going to take a break from it all this summer so hopefully that will help," she said.

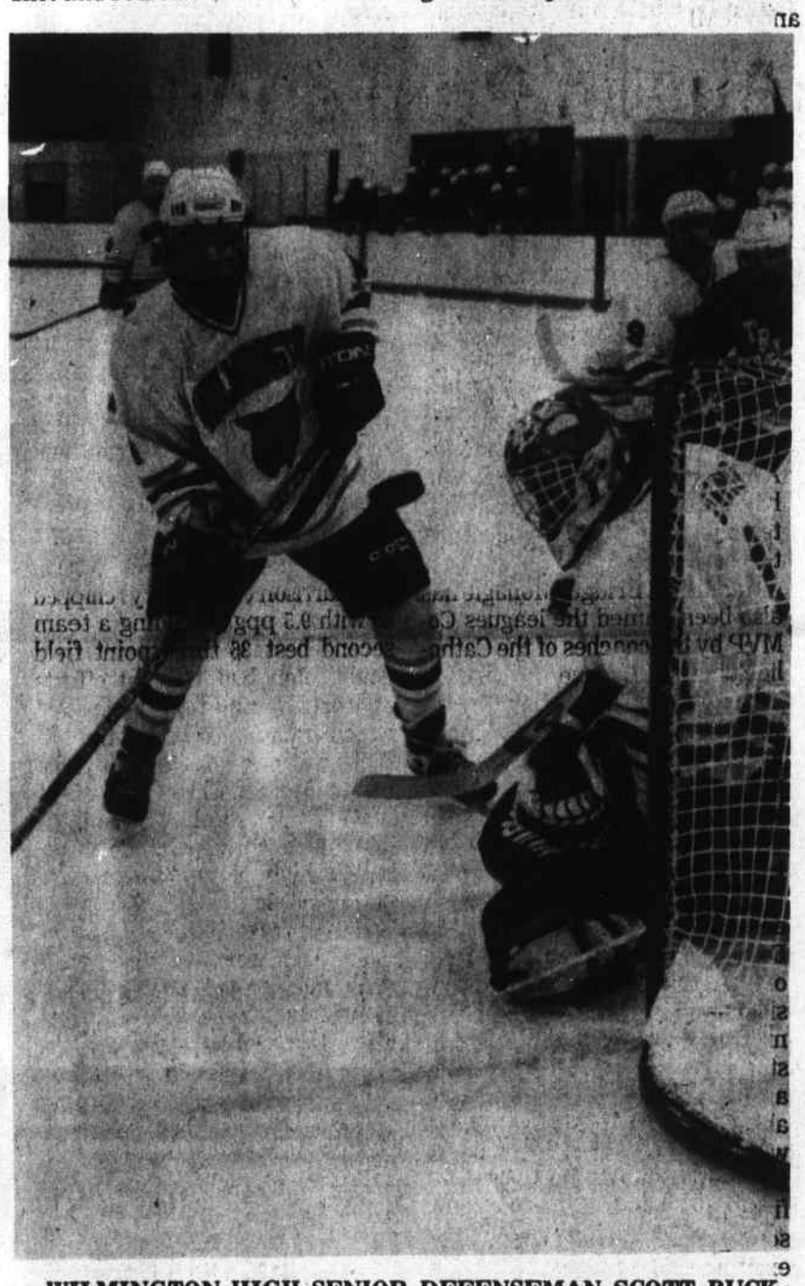

As for this past weekend, Montague said that she went up against 15-20 other gymnasts in the floor exercise and she and another gymnast tied with the same score of 9.0. Montague said she was very surprised with her score, because she didn't perform at her best, and that's not because of the injury.

"I lowered my routine because of this week's state meet," she said. "This past weekend wasn't as stressful as this one upcoming will be, so I took it easy."

Montague is also a member of the Middleton Yellowjackets team which will be competing for the state champion this weekend. She said she will do her best to rest up and get ready for yet another competition as well as accomplishing more feats in the sport she has done for 12 years.

"I love being at the gym," she said. "It keeps me in shape, but I love being there. It's a lot of fun - and it's pretty awesome," she said.

Hopefully for Montague the pain in her back won't take the fun away from a sport she's very good at.

Prep ends season in ugly mess

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It started off ugly for Austin Prep and it certainly ended ugly.

The Cougar boys' ice hockey team faced Arlington on Monday night in a loser's bracket match-up of the Super Eight hockey tournament held at the Tsongas Arena in Lowell.

Arlington scored three goals in a 58 second span of the first period, but Austin Prep didn't fold showing tremendous composure and skill and fought back to make it 3-2 with 6:30 left into what was a magnificent high school hockey game to that point. And then it got ugly.

Arlington scored a controversial goal to make it 4-2 and that score stayed for the rest of the game which eliminated Austin Prep from further play.

Arlington's Christopher Sacca put in a rebound off Wilmington's Jim McGonagle, who played magnificently inbetween the pipes with 36 saves. As Sacca shot the puck, the net became dislodged and the referees ruled that the puck was in before the net came loose. Austin Prep coach Bill Flanagan went irate on the bench and the result of that became a bench minor penalty on Austin Prep.

Following that penalty, five more penalties in the last 6:30 followed for Austin, as the team was very undisciplined the rest of the way picking fights, high-sticking Arlington players in what became a near chaotic scene. After the game was over, an Austin Prep assistant coach and an MIAA official got in a very intense argument heading towards the locker room area.

"I was upset that the referee didn't come over and explain why the goal counted when the net was off. I'm entitled to an explanation," said Flanagan after the game. "I'm not going to blame the referees. We lost to a better team."

Flanagan was asked by this reporter if he and his team lost their cool after the fourth goal was counted.

"Hockey is a game of emotion," he said. "I didn't think we lost our cool at all. That was an emotional period. We lost to a better team tonight, that's the bottom line."

Arlington came out as fast, as hard and as impressive as probably any hockey team could have in the first seven minutes. They pounded away 13 shots during that span, as McGonagle was peppered with shots from every angle, with several odd-man breaks, as he was seen flopping everywhere because Arlington was that quick, and that good.

With the score 1-0, Arlington scored a second goal when the net got dislodged and the goal light never went on, but the referee still counted the goal making it 2-0.

After Arlington made it 3-0, Flanagan called a timeout which ended up to be a brilliant move. The game calmed down, his players calmed down, and Arlington calmed down from what was an awesome display of high school hockey featured by arguably the second best player in the entire state, Ned Havern, who'll be going to Boston College on a full scholarship.

Austin Prep changed their forecheck around a little bit and that seemed to cause some problems to Arlington. Austin skated and played much better thereafter, as Wilmington native Dennis Sullivan scored a huge goal with 45 seconds left in the period making it 3-1.

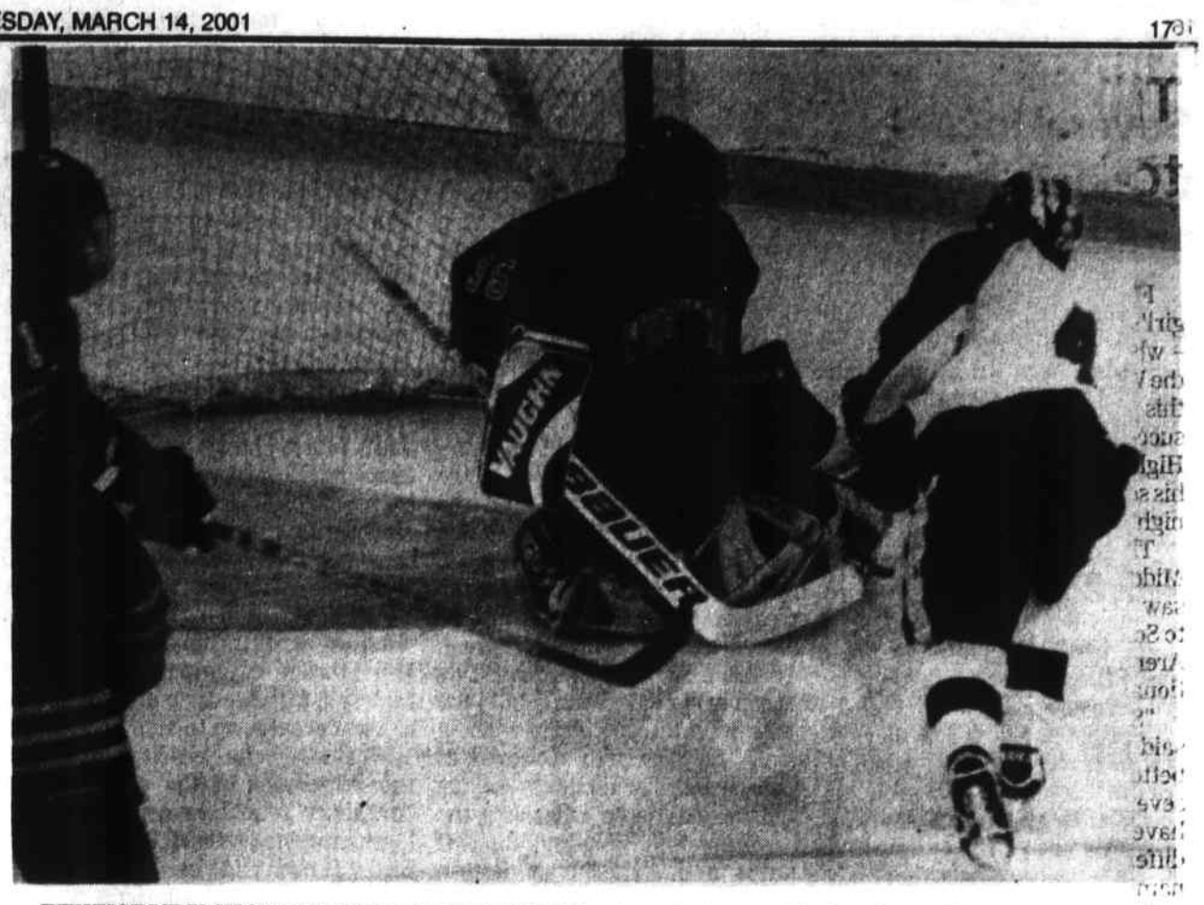

The period ended 3-1 in favor Arlington, who outshot AP by an 18-10 margin.

Just 3:09 into the second period, AP made it a one-goal game as Dan Crowley put home a rebound off a blistering slap shot from Chris Capraro making it 3-2. The period ended with the same score and AP outshot them, 7-6.

Arlington was called for a penalty at the start of the third period but AP couldn't get a shot off in what could have been a turning point in the game.

Austin Prep then in turn was called for a penalty with 9:16 left and McGonagle was terrific stopping all four quality shots during that 90 second frame. Just shortly after that penalty was killed off, Arlington scored that fourth goal. Flanagan was assessed a minor bench penalty, and that followed with a double minor on one of his players two minutes later for tripping and an unsportsmanlike penalty.

Two more penalties were called on AP, while with 5 seconds left, several of their players tried to antagonized Havern to start a fight, but the Arlington prolific scorer held off smartly.

McGonagle stops 32 shots against Arlington

By PAUL HAYES
Sports Correspondent

In the middle of a brilliant performance, Austin Prep goalie Jim McGonagle had one of the worst minutes of his career, against Arlington High School in the state Super 8 boys hockey quarter finals at Tsongas Arena on Monday.

Second seeded Arlington came out strong, and halfway through the first period Wilmington native McGonagle had already made 13 saves. In a 58 second span towards the end of the barrage he let in three goals, two by the state's top goal scorer Ned Havern.

It was a make-or-break moment for McGonagle and for Austin Prep. They were on the verge of being blown out, and for senior netminder McGonagle it meant that his last game would be a lopsided loss.

"I (was) really tired," said McGonagle. "I was bombarded with shots, (Arlington) was in zone for the first three minutes, they kept shooting, there were no whistles."

That was when the team took a timeout, and McGonagle told his team to focus on scoring, because he would keep the puck out of the net. Afterwards, Austin Prep took over the game and nearly pulled off a remarkable comeback, before losing to the second-seeded Spy Ponders, 4-2.

Aside of the three goal spurt, McGonagle played a near perfect game, finishing with 37 saves on 41 shots.

"I remained calm and tried to stay focused, and keep my team in it," said McGonagle. "I told my teammates we still had over 30 minutes left in the game, and that we would have to come out flying."

The tough part was forgetting the goals he let in, and focusing on the remainder of the game. McGonagle practiced selective thinking, remembering only the saves he had made.

"If I forget the goals I let in, then I'll keep playing like I want a shoutout," he said. "It was hard to put behind three goals, they were rapid, and I didn't agree with one of them, but I somehow had to forget about them and keep team in it so we could get back."

Austin Prep got their first goal with 45 seconds remaining in the first period, when a fellow Wilmington native, senior forward Dennis Sullivan, took a pass in front of the net and squeezed a the puck over the stick-side shoulder of the Arlington netminder, scoring his third goal of the tournament. The Cougars scored again at 11:51 in the second period, cutting the lead to one goal, 3-2.

"After the time out, it looked like we played with more fire, we wanted to score more and didn't want the season to end," he said. "By the end of the second period, coach had feeling we could win, if could hold them and score another goal we could get to overtime."

"We thought things could turn around for us," said McGonagle.

McGonagle entered the game aware of Arlington High's vaunted offense, particularly Havern, whose two goals on Monday gave him 38 for the year.

"I knew they had two good lines," he said. "I expected it to be fast, but I didn't know they were that fast. Havern was big and tall, he had speed with strength, and a had a hard, fast shot."

The defense made adjustments following the Spy Ponders first period scoring spurt, and decided to funnel the Arlington players towards McGonagle, this forced them to take shots from center ice where McGonagle was able to watch the play develop and havebetter visibility to make the save.

"By giving them more space, we allowed them in closer, and closer shots were easier to save," said McGonagle.

After the game, despite the fact that the Austin Prep coach and players were upset with a couple of calls, including a pair of questionable goals, McGonagle was the first Cougar player to line up for the handshake.

"I was very hostile at that moment, I was in bad mood about whole game," he said. "But I'm usually the first one to shake hands."

Over the past two seasons the senior goaltender has led Austin Prep to the top of the state rankings, and two consecutive appearances in the state double-elimination Super 8 hockey tournament. It was the first two years Austin Prep had ever qualified for the Super 8 tournament.

"I feel like its a big accomplishment," said McGonagle. "We've made it to the Super 8 twice, and won two league titles in two years."

The fourth seeded Cougars lost their first game in this years tournament last week to B.C. High, 3-2, and won their second on Saturday against Archbishop Williams, 5-2, and finished the year with a record of 16-4-3.

McGonagle expects to play prep school hockey for a year following graduation, and indicated he may attend Bridgeton Academy in Maine, although he has not committed yet. "I'll go their for a year to play hockey, and my ultimate goal after that is to make a division one school and play hockey there," he said.

McGonagle started playing goalie as a squirt. He had been competing with two other players for the spot in goal, and was asked to play the position full-time when he was the first to record a shutout.

"I get the most playing time, and it seems like I'm the last guy the other team has to go by," he said. If I play bad everyone will notice, it all depends on me, its biggest part of the game, and I'm in the hot spot."

Austin Prep sports round-up

By Tim Lane, Austin Publicist and Brian Acampa

Girls Basketball

Four members of the Cougar Girls Basketball Team have been selected as League all-stars for the Catholic Suburban League. Senior captain Bridget Monagle (Lynnfield), junior Stephanie McAvoy (Lynnfield), junior Erica Barry (Malden), and sophomore Alyssa Timmerman (Wakefield) have been named to the All-Star team for their outstanding efforts this season.

In addition, Bridget Monagle has also been named the leagues Co-MVP by the coaches of the Catholic Suburban League.

The girls finished their season with the second best record in the league. The final tally was 15-7, including tournament and non-league games.

Boys Basketball - Season Wrap Up

Although the Cougars season ended with a disappointing loss to Division 4 North champ St. Mary's of Lynn, 2000-2001 has to been considered a success. With eight seniors graduating (including all five starters) from last years 16-6 team and a more difficult schedule ahead, the pre-season prospects were uncertain at best. But the four returning varsity lettermen, five junior varsity players and a sophomore transfer made for an exciting and successful 15-7 season.

This year's only senior, captain Steve Acampa (Saugus) led Austin with 15.0 ppg. and shot 78% from the free throw line, hitting 64 of 82 free throws. Steve scored a season high 24 points in a victory over Lowell Catholic and again in a loss to Savio Prep. Acampa also connected on a school record 55 three pointers, was the teams second leading rebounder and played all five positions at one time or another during the season.

He finishes his Austin career with 110 three point field goals. Sophomore captain Chad Gaudet (Burlington) ran the point, led the team in assists and was the second leading scorer at 10.6 ppg. His season high of 23 points came against Essex Aggie. Sophomore center and leading rebounder Mike Bouvier (Reading), who solidified the interior both offensively and defensively, contributed 9.0 ppg. and scored a season high 17 point against Maimonides.

Junior guard and team captain Jon Harrison (Tewksbury) chipped in with 9.5 ppg. including a team second best 36 three point field goals. Jon had 15 point efforts against Minuteman Tech and Essex Aggie. Austin's balanced scoring attack was complimented by junior Jeff Flores (Winchester) at 8.7 per game, 75% from the line and 23 three pointers. Jeff's season high of 19 came against Maimonides.

The team also got solid contributions from forward Rob Mills (Wilmington) with 4.5 ppg. and a high of 12 against Essex Aggie, guard Justin Bishop (Andover) 3.3 ppg. and 10 against North Reading.

Defensive specialists Brian Feener (Tewksbury) and captain Anthony Castellano (Georgetown) made big contributions off the bench. Brian scored 6 points against St. Mary's while Anthony had 14 points and 10 rebounds against Essex.

Highlights of the season included quality wins against 1999-2000 Catholic Suburban League champ Trinity Catholic 72-50, state tournament qualifiers Minuteman Tech, 65-64 and 65-63, North Reading 71-57 and Arlington Catholic 68-66 in the Division 4 North quarterfinal. The victories over North Reading and Arlington Catholic ended long losing streaks against these long time rivals.

Prospects for next season look good with all but Acampa returning. Best of all however will be the brand new Multi-purpose facility will be serve as the new home to both the boys and girls teams. Dedication of the new facility is scheduled for March 31.

Track

Austin track star Matt Pimentel (Andover) recently ran in the New Balance Nationals held in New York City. Unfortunately, a recent muscle pull prevented him from putting in his best race and left him with a finish 18 seconds off his own best time. Matt qualified to compete in the event with his Catholic Central League leading time of 9:24 in the two mile race during this year's winter track season. This time also set the Austin Prep school record for the two mile. Going into the Nationals, Matt was ranked 6th nationwide.

Boys Hockey

Austin Boys' Hockey defeated Archbishop Williams 5-2 in their second game of the Championship Tournament. Junior Chris Capraro (Medford) led the offense with three goals, bringing him to 32 goals on the season. Capraro is this year's leading scorer for Division I of the Catholic Central League. Other goals were scored by junior Dan Crowley (Melrose) and senior Captain Dennis Sullivan (Wilmington).

It was an impressive season for the 16-4-3 Cougars, who received national recognition early in the season as one of the nations' top ranked high school hockey squads. With a young team and many of its stars returning for next year, the Austin boys are already looking forward to another winning season.

Tosto leads Mite B's to 9-0 romp

Brad Tosto led the Redmen Mite B Hockey team, sponsored by Hill's Fence and Construction, to a 9-0 romp of the Burlington Jr. Devils. The Redmen (33-18-3) had an awesome game with a short handed defensive corps. Ryan Jenkins was able to post his 15th shutout of the season with the help of Allison Frazier, Zac Countie and Sean Kieren.

Robbie Pruyne had his best offensive game of the season as he got the Redmen going three and a half minutes into the game when Frankie Mazzei and Matt Pelrine set him up for a 1-0 Redmen lead. The "Brad Tosto Show" began three minutes later when Brad Tosto scored his first of the game from Robbie Pruyne and Zac (Bubba) Countie and a 2-0 Redmen lead.

Brad continued his stellar performance once again took a pass from Zac Countie and made the score 3-0. It looked as though the Devils were going to hang in there, but Tosto would have none of that. He completed his natural "hat trick" when Allison Frazier hit him with a clearing pass and sent him on a break-away and put the puck past the Devils goalie, making the score 4-0.

Robbie Pruyne scored his second goal of the game from Brad Tosto, seconds later it was Tosto from Pruyne and Sean Kieren for a 6-0 Redmen lead. Nick Forti had several scoring opportunities, then it was Frankie Mazzei who put a rebound of a Kyle O'Brien shot, which was set up from Andrew DeMaio. Brad Tosto scored his fifth goal of the game, this one from Pruyne (his fifth point of the game) and Allie Frazier.

Allison Noyes closed out the scoring by making her first of the season from Brad Tosto, his seventh point of the game.

Squirt E's on a winning tear

The first place Wilmington Squirt E's sponsored by the Wilmington Arena Authority, extended their unbeaten streak with wins over Amesbury and Pentucket in recent games thanks to consecutive hat tricks by Jeff Harris, a shutout by Richie Murray and Strong defensive play by the whole team.

Wilmington 4, Amesbury 1

Two teams on hot streaks, the Wilmington Squirt E's and the Amesbury Squirt B's met at the Ristuccia Center. Wilmington brought in an 11 game unbeaten streak in Valley League competition and a 15 game unbeaten streak overall. Amesbury has turned its season around and came in to the game with a three game winning streak, in which they scored 25 goals. It was also a matchup of the Squirt Gold North Division's top two scorers in Wilmington's Jeff Harris and Amesbury's Griffin Lausier. Both scorers notched tallies in the game but it was Harris' three goals and one assist which propelled Wilmington to a 4-1 victory.

The first period saw both teams playing a defensive style coupled with strong goaltending. Wilmington's Richie Murray and Amesbury's Zach Petersen traded saves until, with under a minute to play in the period, Lausier skated in and lofted a high shot into the net giving Amesbury a 1-0 lead.

At the beginning of the second period a tripping penalty put Wilmington on the power play. Good puck control and passing set up several scoring opportunities but Petersen managed to stop them all, including a break in by Wilmington's Andrew Flodin.

Wilmington exploded midway through the period with two quick goals. Murray had just made a spectacular stick save when Wilmington took control. Harris broke out and ripped a high, hard shot which tied the score. Twenty-one seconds later Harris put Wilmington ahead when Flodin sent him in for another high shot. Right off the ensuing faceoff Harris broke in again tying for the fastest hat trick ever but Petersen made a great save to stop him.

Team defense was pivotal for the remainder of the period as Amesbury fought to come back. Back checking forwards Billy Liston and Jared Hayes thwarted Amesbury along the boards. The defensive tandem of Chris Welch and Chris Colosimo broke up plays and expertly cleared the zone.

Wilmington's control continued into the third period as they kept the puck in the Amesbury end. Defenseman Welch broke up one Amesbury play and sent the puck up to winger Timothy Marten. Marten, along with his wing mates Harris and Justin Rivera, rushed in. Martin passed off to Harris for a shot which the Amesbury goalie stopped but didn't control. Rivera pounced on the rebound and made it 3-1 Wilmington.

The Squirt E's kept the play in the Amesbury end with smart plays at the blue line by defensemen Sean Tavares and Ryan Kennedy. Kennedy, playing his first game on defense, combined with Tavares to constantly knock the puck back deeper into the zone, setting up more scoring opportunities.

With under three minutes to play Dean Moran, playing forward in this game, moved the puck up the left side. Moran fought along the boards to get the puck to Harris, who notched his third goal of the game. A strong game for Wilmington against a tough opponent ended in a 4-1 win.

Wilmington 4, Pentucket 0

The Wildcats traveled to the Valley Forum for a game with Pentucket and played one of their best games of the season. A standout performance by goalie Richie Murray and the sturdy play of the defense provided Wilmington with a shutout victory, 4-0.

The first period saw Wilmington put a lot of pressure on an able Pentucket team. It was scoreless until, with 4:10 left in the period, co-captain Jeff Harris took a pass from Justin Rivera and skated down the left side. From about 15 feet out he shot high and hard, ripping it past the goalie to make it 1-0.

Harris scored two more goals in the second period, also on high, hard to handle shots. The first one was assisted by Billy Liston at 9:52 and the second came at 4:13 from Rivera and Timothy Marten.

The period was notable for the play of the defense. Jared Hayes, Chris Colosimo, Sean Tavares and Chris Welch all stepped up and controlled the game at both ends. Whether clearing plays or stealing passes in the defensive zone or manning the points in the offensive end, they put on a clinic on how to play the game.

Early in the third period one of Welch's clearing passes went up the boards and was directed by Rivera to center Ryan Kennedy. Kennedy stickhandled up the middle and put a shot past the goalie to make it 4-0. It would remain that way throughout the period even though Wilmington's forwards continued their inspired skating and forechecking. Forwards Andrew Flodin, co-captain Dean Moran, Liston and Marten worked the corners and frustrated Pentucket.

Goalie Richie Murray thoroughly earned his shutout with many big stops. Several steaming shots in particular off Pentucket's leading scorer Nathaniel Haggard were difficult saves, but Murray stood his ground.

Wilmington will be back in action Thursday evening at Merrimack College when they take on Triton in Valley League play.

Squirt E's continue torrid pace against Triton

Wilmington 7, Triton 3

Wilmington continued their fine play when they travelled to Merrimack College to face another tough opponent in Triton. This time Jeff Harris got his hat trick in the first period alone. He added two more goals and an assist to lead Wilmington to a 7-3 win.

Again, it was outstanding defense and relentless back checking with confused Triton. The solid play of defensemen Jared Hayes, Sean Tavares, co-captain Chris Welch and Dean Moran has come to be expected of late and they certainly didn't disappoint. Goalie Richie Murray came up with the big stops when needed.

Harris scored his first goal at the 8:46 mark of the first period when Moran kept the puck in at the blue line, up to Justin Rivera. Rivera moved it along the boards where Harris grabbed it out of a crowd, skated in, shot and scored. A minute and a half later Triton tied the game at 1-1 on a rebound shot. With under three minutes to play in the period it was Rivera again passing out front to Harris, who put the puck into the upper left corner.

A tripping penalty to Welch put Triton on the powerplay but penalty killers Harris and co-captain Ryan Kennedy broke out, two on one. Harris blasted a shot past the goaltender for a short-handed goal and a first period hat trick.

It was a high scoring second period with Wilmington outscoring Triton 3-2. At 7:29 winger Andrew Flodin positioned himself perfectly in front as Kennedy sent a pass over to him. Flodin popped it in, making the score 4-1. A minute later, on a powerplay, Welch took a pass from Harris, moved in from the blue line and ripped a steaming shot into the net. Then it was Harris and Rivera combining again as Harris shot and snared his own rebound, scoring his fourth goal of the game. Before the period ended, Triton scored two quick goals to get themselves back into the contest.

The third period saw Wilmington at their best. Notable plays included Tavares and Moran running Triton forwards off the puck, Billy Liston being robbed by the Triton goalie on a hard shot from the slot, sustained pressure by the line of Kennedy, Flodin and Timothy Marten, several heads up defensive plays by Hayes and Welch, a blocker save by Murray off Triton's leading scorer Brian Keenan, and another goal by Harris.

Welch and Tavares had broken up a Triton play when Harris took the puck in his own end, skated down and drew the goalie to his right with some fancy stick handling and holding the puck until the goalie went down before netting his fifth goal. What should have been his sixth goal, on an almost identical play, was nullified when the referee didn't see the puck go into the net.

On Saturday, March 17 Wilmington (14-1-1) returns to the Ristuccia Center for what may be a playoff preview when a hot second place Andover team comes to town.

Mite B's have the right mind set

Mindful that just a few crucial weeks remain of this hockey season, the Wilmington Mite B hockey players set out to prove a few things, mostly to themselves, when they laced up for their two games last weekend.

One, for sure, was to prove they could match up against the talented Billerica B team that so dominated them in the Lowell Lock Monsters Mite Tournament recently. Another was to show that they still have enough spunk left to vie for a Valley League title as crunch time nears. Judging by the results of the games, they should have dispelled all doubts.

First, the Wildcats demonstrated that they can spar with Billerica's best when they battled the Indians to a 4-4 tie in a Dual State League contest at Skate 3 in Tyngsboro last Saturday. Then, to validate their hopes for a decent Valley League finish, they crushed the N.H. Junior Bruins at the Merrimack Valley Forum on Sunday by the lopsided score of 7-1.

In a Dual State game against Billerica, the Cats split their scoring between the first and third periods, and scored last in the third to muster the tie.

In the first period with the B's down 1-0, Paul Duffy, assisted by Alex Williams, broke the ice for Wilmington with a nice wrist shot that evened the score. Later in that frame, winger Kevin Barry threaded the needle with a long precision pass from the right corner to Pat Enwright in front of the net, and Enwright stroked it in to give Wilmington a 2-1 lead.

Both teams then fast forwarded to the third period before scoring again. Billerica scored first early in the period, but Wilmington's Peter Leighton, assisted by Alex Williams, fired back a little over a minute later when he shot one past the Billerica goalie to put the B's back up 3-2.

Billerica then landed a one-two punch by scoring two goals to retake the lead 4-3 with six minutes remaining in the game. With just two minutes left, Pat Enwright stepped up again for the Wildcats and planted a shot for the last goal. Final Score, Wilmington 4; Billerica 4.

On Sunday at the Forum against the N.H. Bruins, the Cats established themselves early with a goal in the first period, but they really didn't take off on their scoring spree until the second and third. Passing, steals, multiple assists, rebounds and a scorching top corner shot then became the order of the day, as the B's feasted on what clearly was an uncharacteristically off day for the N.H. Bruins.

Pat Enwright spearheaded the assault with a hat trick, along with Brendan Collins, Brett Kidik and Kevin Barry who each had a goal and an assist. Sean Keane accounted for Wilmington's seventh goal with a flip in over the outstretched arms of Bruins goalie Shane Forsley, who actually did a good job in net, picking up 18 saves during the game. Wildcats David Mello, Peter Leighton and Matt Larffarello each were credited with assists for setting up Enwright and Kidik for their goals.

Over the weekend, the B's also got some consistent defense from Brendan O'Brien, Anthony Bruce, Brendan Collins and Brian Coutu, who, with Wilmington short a few players, racked up a lot of ice time but still managed to contain Billerica and hold the Bruins to just one goal. Chris Robertson did his usual exceptional job in net, collecting 19 saves over the two games.

The Wildcats designated the two good outings as their get well card to teammate Sammy Grant who was ill and could not make the games.

Mite A's split two games

This past weekend, the Tewksbury Mite A hockey team, sponsored by East Coast Irrigation, split a pair of games.

On Saturday, March 11, Nashua pummeled Tewksbury by a 7-0 margin.

On Sunday, March 12, the Redmen rebounded with an impressive 4-3 come-from-behind victory over North Andover.

Tewksbury fell behind 1-0 in the first period. However, with one second remaining in that period, Ian DiRusso broke past the North Andover defense and roofed a shot past their goalie.

North Andover then scored two consecutive goals in the second period to take a 3-1 lead. Tewksbury countered and scored three unanswered goals in the third. Andrew Lee (assisted by Shawn Bradley) cut the deficit to 3-2 on a top-shelf blast from the right circle and Ryan Doherty tied the game when he crashed the net after a Nicholas Mann shot.

With a minute left in the game, Ryan Doherty stole the puck, skated behind the net and fed a wide-open Nicholas Rose who punched in the game winner.

Although not directly involved in the scoring, forwards Eric DiRusso, Daniel Rose and Jonathan Choroszy, and defensemen David Conley, George Barnes, Evan Cutelis, and James Sullivan contributed to the overall offensive success.

Goaltender James Berkeley, who, displayed a spectacular glove save, on a breakaway attempt late in the game, played well.

Pee Wee A's get nudged by a goal

The Tewksbury PeeWee A's, sponsored by Century 21/Borstell recently faced off against Keene, N.H. in the Valley League and lost a tough one 1-0. Tewksbury had plenty of chances. Keene's goalie made some great saves to stonewall Tewksbury.

At the other end Marc Emond made all the big saves to give Tewksbury a chance to tie or win. In the process Tewksbury lost the services of defenseman TJ Strong who broke his wrist in the action and the team wishes him a speedy recovery.

In Dual State action Tewksbury squared off with Wilmington and shut them out 3-0 for the second time this year in league play. Mark Emond played very well in net to help him earn the victory and Mike Grasso had three points. Tewksbury goals were scored by Mike Grasso with two and Colleen Fitzpatrick.

Assisting on those goals were Matt Wilkie, Mike Frazier, Mike Grasso and Kyle Staples. The rest of the team consisting of Mark Martel, Ken Maglio, Chris Myers and Ryan Mooney played good two way hockey to keep Wilmington off the board.

Junior Division Playoff Action

Celtics	37
Raptors	36

The Celtics squeaked by the Raptors to earn a trip to the town championships as they look to repeat next week against the Sixers. They earned the spot the hard way against a tough Raptors team that wouldn't quit. From the very first second of this contest to literally the very last second of play, you were on the edge of your seat.

Kyle Stocki of the Raptors were not enough to keep the Celtics determination at bay. With both the players and parents screaming at the top of their lungs, the Celtics drive was not put down.

With 3 seconds left on the clock, Celtics star Charlie Lucia intercepted a pass, bolted the length of the court and made the shot with less than one second left on the play clock, giving the Celtics the win. If you ever wanted to witness a miracle comeback, then this was the game to see. Outstanding effort and teamwork by the Raptors' Willie Kresien, Chris Hashem, Matthew Bradley, Chris Brennan, Michael DeMattia, Thomas Litwinsky, Anthony Miano, and Derek Yarossi.

A sincere appreciation is sent to all the wonderful volunteers that make the Tewksbury Basketball League possible. Your contribution to our children is immeasurable as these are memories that will last a lifetime!

Sixers	25
Lakers	19

The Sixers hung on and advanced to the finals in a very exciting playoff game that came down to the last couple of minutes of the fourth quarter.

Although the Sixers had trouble getting the ball in the hoop, they played excellent defense and kept the game close enough to allow the Sixers to outlast a very good Lakers team. Michael Hanifin's four points and several key steals set the tone and changed the momentum for the Sixers.

Conor Flanagan and Michael Hood, with six points each, and James Melloni's four points lead the offense. The leadership of point guards Donald Berube and Scott Oberg kept the Sixers in focus. The aggressive defensive play of Tyler Stewart, Derek Tammallo, Anthony Garcia and Tyler Bradley helped keep the Lakers scoring down.

Senior Division Playoff Action

Bucks	54
Huskies	52

This was one of those playoff games you hope for as both teams played excellent, hard basketball. The game came down to the final period with the lead changing several times with the Bucks ultimately taking the lead in the last 30 seconds. It is hard to pick out any one or two players from the Huskies for this game. They all came to play on Saturday! They have nothing to be ashamed about this loss. They played as a team not as individuals. Thanks for a great season to a group of great young men!

Intermediate Division Playoff Action

Pistons	42
Bullets	32

The number 2 seeded Pistons found the 5th seeded Bullets more than a match throughout the first half of this semi-final match-up. The Bullets came out in the first quarter very disciplined and dueled the Pistons back and forth to get a 9 to 8 lead.

Robert Tanso found the shooting touch and added 6 of his game high 8 points as he dominated the offensive boards. Pistons' Mike Arpin scored 5 (of his game high 7 points) as he worked his way through a swarming Bullet defense with excellent passes and ball handling. The tight zone defense of the Bullets was something the Pistons hadn't seen much of this season, forcing them to take the outside shot.

In the second quarter, the shots started dropping as Josh Coakley (10 points total) and Joe Coakley hit 4 points each and the Pistons picked up their own defensive stance. Bullets David Barbato hit for 4 points to keep them in it but the Pistons took a 3 point lead into halftime, 21 to 18.

It was the 3rd quarter that the Pistons finally took over the game outscoring the Bullets 15 to 6 to open up a 12 point lead. The full court press of Joe Coakley caught the Bullets off guard, and created several turnovers that were cashed in for points at the other end.

The Pistons as a team had a season high 17 steals, with Brendan Tuttle, and Coakley leading the team with 4 each. Fast hands and a keen sense of team loyalty becoming his trademark, Matt Bruno also had a big defensive outing, intercepting a number of passes. Ben Judge took over the low post and dominated the boards finishing with 17 rebounds while posting 5 points. Bullets Kris Pazzanese tried to keep up with the Pistons, scoring a much needed basket in the 3rd but the Pistons kept pulling away.

The Bullets came back with full court man to man pressure in the fourth period and chipped the lead down to 8. The Pistons' John Delponte then hit a timely hoop and helped put the game out of reach as the Pistons held on to advance to the finals this coming Saturday at noon in the Ryan School gymnasium.

Other scoring for the Bullets were Robert Trayah (6 points), Jeff Magee, David Barbato and Myles White each with 4. A great game came from all players of both teams as they demonstrated team spirit and sportsmanship at it's best.

Nuggets	46
Friars	29

In the playoffs of the final four, the number 1 seed Nuggets dealt with the number 6 seed Friars (who have played outstanding basketball and upsetting the league's leaders) to pull off another win. The Nuggets took a big lead in the first quarter as the Friars found themselves having a hard time scoring.

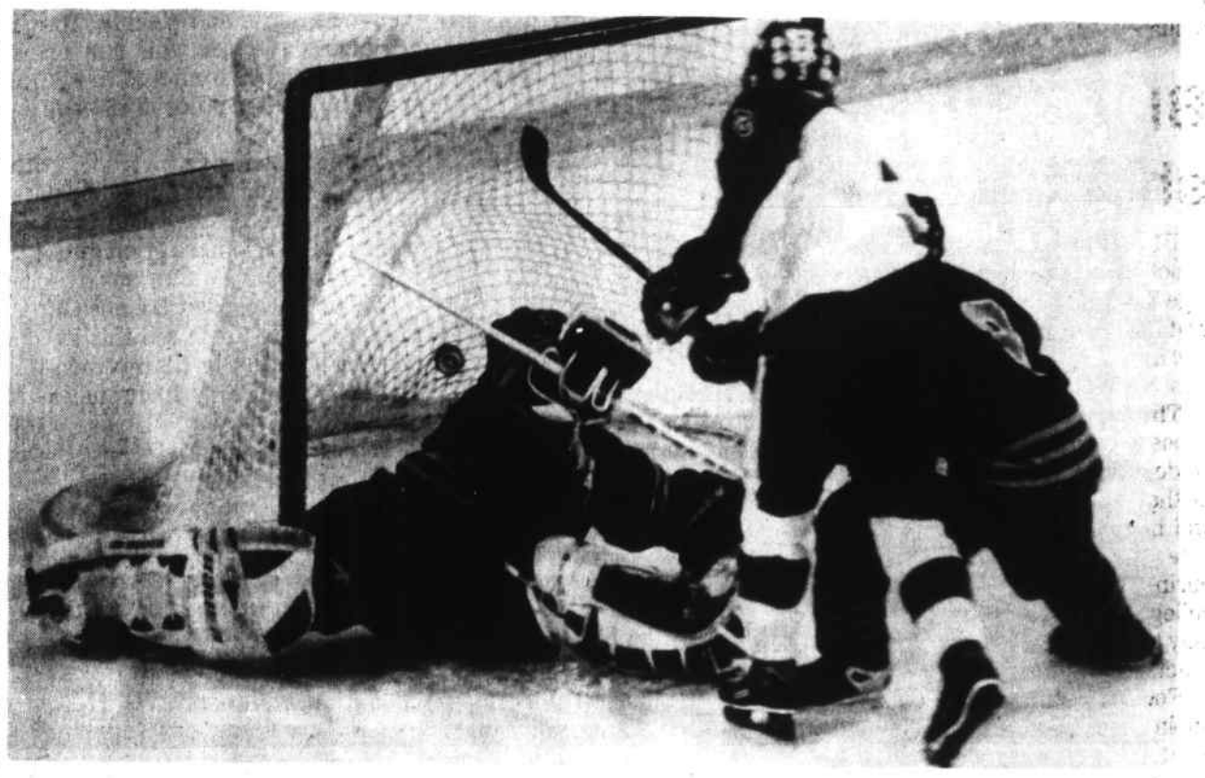

The Nuggets maintained that lead throughout the remainder of the game, playing hard and never letting the Friars mount a threat. Steven Mello, Brian Baptista and Derek Lowe were high scorers with 8 points each, Scott Mello was right behind them with 6 points and Tommy Byrne, Minal Patel and Shane Riddle pitched in with 4 points each. Mike Parcella, Tim Sullivan and Jason Hill made excellent defensive plays.

Shane Riddle stepped in as the "Big Guy" at center grabbing some great rebounds for the team. Brian Mello and Chris Foran jumped in with support to bring this win home for the Nuggets. In a ceremony at the end of the game, the League Representative, Jay Herzog, presented the Friars with their team trophies and the Nuggets received their Tewksbury Season Championship trophies. Congratulations Nuggets! Great Job!

The Nuggets now play the regular season second place team in the Leagues Tournament Championship game for 11 and 12 year olds this Saturday.

Mite C's Rocket past Reading, 2-1

The Tewksbury Mite C Redmen hockey team, sponsored by J. J. Phelan and Sons, General Contractors put forth an outstanding effort Saturday afternoon and defeated the Reading Rockets, 2-1 at the Burbank Rink in Reading.

Goalie Sean Dooley was outstanding in net and the superb back checking of the forwards and the brick wall of the defense frustrated Reading, which had won the recent Lowell Lock Monsters tournament beating the Valley League's top team, Wilmington 1-0 in the final game.

The first period was a gem, with back and forth action at both ends but neither team able to score. The second period was much of the same with the lines of Kevin Poulin, Anthony Arcari and Nick Barbera applying the offensive pressure and the defensive quartet of Josh White, Brendan Kieran, Jimmy Malcolm and Rickey Sheehan dominating their end of the ice.

With eight seconds left in the period, Reading scored to go ahead 1-0. The Redmen could have quit at that point but it only lit a fire under their offense as Kevin Poulin tied the game at 1-1 with a beautiful shot with 1 second left in the period, assist going to Anthony Arcari. Tewksbury kept up the pressure in the third with the lines of Erik Kelly, Sean Taylor and Michael Daley, and Chris Irwin, Colin Walsh and Patrick Quinn keeping the puck in the Reading end.

Finally, 4 minutes into the period, the Chris Irwin tossed a beautiful pass to Nick Barbera who fed a streaking Colin Walsh past the Reading defense and Colin made it count, lifting over the goalies shoulder to put the Redmen ahead to stay, 2-1. Dooley and the defense took over from there and the Redmen got a well deserved victory over a very tough team.

On Sunday, the Redmen faced a very tough MYRHA 2 team at Skate 3 and played very well despite losing 3-1. The game was close with a lot of great fore checking by the forwards and spectacular defensive effort by goalie Sean Dooley and the defensive teams of White and Kieran, Malcolm and Daley.

After a scoreless first period where the Redmen stuck with them play for play, MYRHA jumped ahead 1-0 with about 3 minutes left in the second and scored a second goal 4 minutes into the third to take what looked like a commanding 2-0 lead but the Redmen wouldn't quit. Sparking some offensive action were the lines of Colin Walsh, Patrick Quinn and Chris Irwin and Sean Macleod, Sean Taylor and Erik Kelly.

With 1:25 left in the period, Irwin took a feed from Colin Walsh and drilled it past the MYRHA goalie to make it a close 2-1 score.

The Redmen line of Anthony Arcari, Kevin Poulin and Nick Barbera tried desperately to tie the game as the Redmen pulled their goalie but with 7 seconds left, a MYRHA forward intercepted a Redmen pass and shot it in the Tewksbury net from center ice to close out the scoring at 3-1 MYRHA. Tewksbury Mite C's are currently in the middle of the pack in the Valley League and are trying hard to move up in the standings as the playoffs approach. They will be participating in this weekend's Hallenbourg Tournament in Billerica facing opponents from host Billerica, Woburn and Nashua C teams. Come watch and enjoy the exciting hockey that this team plays!!

Pee Wee B's face Woburn

The Tewksbury PeeWee B team sponsored by Jim Boudreau Automotive located at 2184 Main Street recently faced Woburn in a rough and tough battle that saw them come out on top.

Tewksbury hung in while Woburn tried to make a meal out of forwards Pat Devito, Tim Dooley and Anthony Moccia. Tim Sheehan and Justin O'Brien filled in for the missing "B" teammates. Christian Murray and Jeremy Booth skated hard and set the pace for the rest.

Defensive praise go to Katie Stokes, Brendan Cottreau, Kyle Stevenson and Joe DeMaio for containing the Woburn ruffians.

Goals were scored by; Brendan Cottreau, Tim Dooley, Matt Danecki, Joe DeMaio and Pat DeVito as Tewksbury walked away with the win while Woburn faced multiple suspensions for their unsportsman-like behavior.

National Women's Football League

By PAUL FEELY

Fans of gridiron warfare take heart - Massachusetts will be getting another professional football team this spring. No, don't worry - that shame-to-the-game XFL league isn't bringing a franchise to Boston. The National Women's Football League (NWFL) is set to kickoff its inaugural season this April, and the local entry will be the Massachusetts Mutiny.

Former Woburnite Toni Farfaras plans to be on the roster when the exciting new league gets underway, as she prepares to enter her second season in women's professional football, having played as a tackle for the Rhode Island-based New England Storm in the Women's Profes-sional Football League last year and helping to take that team to the league's Super Bowl in Houston, where it suffered a 39-7 defeat to the Houston Energy.

Farfaras is excited about the prospects of the new league, and is anxious for the season to begin.

"The team will be made up of most of the players from last year's Storm squad," said Farfaras. "This league will be a little closer to home, so that will make it easier on many players to get to the games."

Women's professional football really took off in popularity last year, with the surprising financial success of the New England Storm and its league.

While interest and media coverage nationwide for women's professional sports leagues aren't as intense currently as men's leagues, teams involved in soccer leagues and now professional football have proved that there is a market for the games. The WNBA is likely the best example of this thus far, and the endorsement deals given to members of the United States Olympic hockey and soccer teams prove that corporate America is sitting up and taking notice as well.

Folks, if you truly like what you are doing, you will never have to work another day in your life and if you get paid for what you like to do, thank God. I do that after every column I write.

The French call it, "Joi de Vivre." the Italians, "La Dolci Vita. The Americans say, "Cool man Cool." BUT no one has the sensitivity of the Irish like Tony Stack who said to a beautiful colleen, "come into my garden dear, I want my roses to see you."

Good news Blackie Vega, Richie Gillis and Johnny Ave made the "Centerfold" of the "Hobo News."

The hotel clerk told Blackie Vega, "there are only two rooms available, one with a tub and the other a shower." "What's the difference?" Blackie asked. "With the shower," the clerk replied, "you have to STAND UP!"

I asked Frank Hudson, "What was Father Leo Shea's sermon about this morning?" Frank replied, "Sin." "What did he say about it?" Frank said, "he's against it."

The apprentice barber nicked George Guyette's face more than a couple of times. "Shall I wrap your head with a towel sir?" "Yes, please do," George replied, "and I'll carry it home under my arm."

Many people are sensitive about their weight. Kathy doesn't want anyone to know how much she weighs. She wants to remain ENORMOUS.

My Aunt Nora called Kathy up and said, "we must plan another trip to New York some weekend, I'm running out of hotel towels. The last time they went to New York Kathy got pinched in the Astor Bar.

Everyone told my cousin Mario that it couldn't be done. He tried it and proved them right.

Folks, If you want to get nowhere follow the crowd.

The late Sam Levenson was a great humorist. This friendly charitable man was asked "Sam, what makes some people anti semitic?" "I don't know," Sam replied. "It's a FREE world. You don't have to like Jews, but, if you don't, you should be consistent and also hate their accomplishments. Like, the Polio Vaccine from Dr. Jon Salk and Dr. Albert Sabin, Streptomycin by Dr. Woronon, vitamins by Dr. Funk etc. Sam continued, "if you want to HATE--hate, but STAY HEALTHY!"

I was told that a "CAMEL" is really a, "HORSE" put together by a, "COMMITTEE!"

My cousin Angelo Quagenti served with the 121st Battalion of her Majesty's Fusileers. The men who served in it were nicknamed "the paperhangers." On border patrols they would get, "HUNG UP" and come apart at the "SEAMS". The "PATTERN" was always the same, in every skirmish they would become, "UNGLUED" and call for help.

Folks Kathy and I walk along Revere Beach almost every day. You will recognize us easily. Kathy is "bowlegged" and I'm "Knock-kneed" so when we walk together we look like two quotation marks coming toward you.

My friend George Gould was testifying in court as an eye-witness. The judge asked him, "did you "stop" anytime when you were walking your dog Rover?" George smiled and replied, "Your Honor, apparently you never walked a dog!"

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them ?

Folks if you remember any of these, "Twenty-two Skiddoo," "Cute as a Button," "Its a Lead Pipe Cinch," "That's the kind of a Hairpin" I am," "She was as Pure as the Driven Snow-But-Oh how she, Drifted." "Head for the Round-House Nellie he can't corner you there." Then you must be as old as ME.

My Cousin Mario is married to a gal named Kate-BUT- is still in love with Edith. His wife found out and exclaimed, "Mario! you can't have your "KATE and EDITH TOO!"

My Aunt Nora told a store floorwalker, "Sir I can't seem to find the Johnson Baby Powder." "Ma'am," he said, "It's three aisles over please walk this way." (Well folks, the poor man was MORE than a little bow-legged) so my Aunt Nora exclaimed, "Mister, if I could walk that way, I wouldn't need the Baby Powder!"

About the Towns
by Phyllis Nissen

The 17th and a Sullivan, again!

Greener pasture in Tewksbury

"After fourteen years of public service with the town, Tewksbury resident and Planning and Conservation Director Sean Sullivan will soon be moving on to a new challenge in Hudson, New Hampshire," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"'I've worked in Tewksbury pretty much my entire professional career,' says Mr. Sullivan.

"He began work with the town as a contract employee with the sewer program in 1986. In that job, he addressed the residents' concerns about debris, equipment, damaged lawns and fences and so on.

"In 1987, Mr. Sullivan began his full-time service as a town employee.

"'I worked with Tom Fiorello for about a year. In 1988, I applied for the Planning Director position,' Mr. Sullivan says.

"He was interviewed and shortly thereafter was appointed to the position. He also continued his education as he worked and earned a Masters Degree in Public Administration.

"'When Sean became Planning Director, he realized that the position would be challenging, and he worked hard,' says Town Clerk Liz Carey. 'He learned the job and lived up to that challenge.'

"'I've worked with many good people over the years,' says Mr. Sullivan. In fact, he says that in working closely with the Planning Board and Conservation Commission, he developed a special allegiance with them. 'It's been a good experience.'

"In 1994, the town consolidated the positions of Planning Director and Conservation Commission Director. Mr. Sullivan applied for the combined position and was appointed. With a few necessary adjustments, he assumed the duties of the new challenge.

"Mr. Sullivan's career with the town has been an eventful one. He is responsible for initiating many of the changes in zoning and traffic mitigation items with the new businesses along Route 38. He worked with a citizen's group for four years on a rezoning plan. In 1992, he presented that plan to Town Meeting for approval...."

"'It will be a 30-minute commute for me,' says Mr. Sullivan. Right now, his commute time is only five minutes.

"His new position as Director of Community Development in Hudson will include such duties as being responsible for building department zoning, the health department and planning.

"In his new position, he will report to the town administrator and a five-member Board of Selectmen. In his current position, he reports to the seven-member Planning Board, the five-member Conservation Commission and Town Manager David Cressman.

Farfaras From S-1

the gridiron has barely been tolerated, with some young girls allowed to play Pop Warner and on some high school teams. Flag football is considered acceptable for girls, but a full-contact, smashmouth style? The critics didn't want to hear it.

That was before the Women's Professional Football League came onto the scene. The league began with a trial run over the winter in 1999-2000, with two teams in the Midwest and a team in New York. The league was deemed a moderate success by those involved, and soon grew to 14 teams, one of which was the New England Storm.

The team consisted of many women who left their families and jobs on weekends to head out on long drives to practice and play in the league, despite the payscale of just $100 per game (though the teams did pick up travel expenses for road games).

Carter Turner, one of the creators of the WPFL, created the league for two reasons. At the time he had 15 years with an organization dedicated to promoting minor league sports called World Wide Sports, which gave him the knowledge on how to promote the league. The other reason is he has a daughter, and he reportedly wanted to give her an option in sports, outside a career in corporate America.

A Providence, Rhode Island, lawyer, Melissa Korpacz, worked last season as the general manager of the New England Storm, running it as a fledgling operation with many friends in high places within the organization, mainly because the pay was so poor.

Last season league games took place in cold weather, with many family members making the long rides out of Massachusetts into Rhode Island to see the games. Non-family members attended as well, as the league enjoyed higher ticket sales than expected at the beginning of the year, but those tapered off a bit as the weather turned colder.

The season ended under a cloud of financial uncertainty, with many players upset when there wasn't any money left over at the end of the season.

That uncertainty helped lead to the creation of the NWFL, which will enjoy better weather (the season will run from April through June), and a better fan base, with games taking place in Lawrence Stadium, which has a capacity of about 7,000 people.

Farfaras is looking forward to the start of the year, and the prospect of playing in better conditions weatherwise.

"I was surprised at the number of people who came out to see the games last year, considering the drive and the weather," said Farfaras. "We did enjoy some success. Playing in Massachusetts will make it a little easier on the players and our fans. The team is basically the Storm from last year, minus a few players."

Farfaras graduated Woburn High School in 1993, where she excelled in softball, soccer, and basketball. She went on to Northeastern University, where she trained to become an Emergency Medical Technician, a job she currently holds in Milford (she recently put in a 36 hour shift during last week's storm).

She became interested in the team after playing flag football for awhile, finding enjoyment in the game of football itself, and then heard about a tryout in East Boston.

"Over 300 women went to that first tryout, and then it was whittled down at the next tryout," said Farfaras. "In the beginning of the season, we did whatever we could to help promote the team. Our friends and families also helped to spread the word for us. It was a good experience."

Farfaras is one of the players from the Storm that was eager to make the jump to the Mass Mutiny, along with coach Mike Fay, who is also an owner of the new team. Fay coached the Storm to a 7-3 record last year, good enough for second place.

If any local women are interested in joining either the Mutiny or the Storm (which has announced it will be moving to the Boston area this year, though negotiations are still underway to secure a home field), there will be several opportunities to try out for both teams in the coming weeks.

The Storm is scheduled to begin play in the WPFL July 21 with a ten game schedule. The Storm will play in the WPFL North, which consists of the New York Sharks (Long Island), Montreal, and the Rochester Galaxy, while other teams in the league include the Daytona Beach Barracudas, the Miami Fury, the Tampa Tempest, the LA Breakers, the Houston Energy and the Oklahoma City Wildcats.

The Storm will hold a free agent tryout session at UMass-Boston on March 25 from 1-5 pm. The phone number for more information is 1-888-630-0598, while the team's website is located at:

www.newenglandstorm.com

The Massachusetts Mutiny will be holding a tryout on Saturday, March 24 at the Buckingham, Browne and Nichols School at 80 Gerry's Landing Road in Cambridge. Registration takes place at 9 am, with the tryouts running from 10 am until noon. There is a one-time $45 registration fee (includes a t-shirt), and players must be ages 18 and up.

Longfellow House

Grounds reclamation plan

In Spring, 2001, the National Park Service will host a series of special programs entitled "Envisioning a Garden" dedicated to the rehabilitation of the historic Longfellow House Gardens and Grounds in Cambridge.

The anticipated recovery of this once glorious landscape, located only a few short blocks from Harvard Square, is a subject of much interest in the community and will result in both a richness of plantings and inspiring spaces in which to stage public education programs. Program co-sponsors include the Longfellow National Historic Site, Radcliffe Seminars, Friends of Longfellow House, and the New England Garden History Society.

On Tuesday, March 20, historic landscape consultant Mark Laird will launch the series by describing the challenges of re-establishing the horticultural heritage of a centuries-old landscape such as Longfellow's in his lecture entitled "RECONSTRUCTING THE CULTURE OF HORTICULTURE ON BOTH SIDES OF THE ATLANTIC." Laird recalls his for quest for accuracy in the ambitious recovery from dereliction of Painshill Park, one of England's finest eighteenth century gardens, and traces his attempts to interpret the horticultural past of chief George Johnson's nineteenth century parkland at Chiefswood on the Six Nations, Ontario.

Lecture will be held on March 20 from 6:30 to 8 pm at the Cronkhite Graduate Center, Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study, 6 Ash Street, Cambridge, three blocks from Harvard Square. Program is FREE and accessible to the public - no reservations are required. For details on this and other series programs, call 617-566-1689 x 203.

ST. PATRICK'S WEEKEND OPEN HOUSE

An open house exhibition will be held at Crump Gallery, South Boston on St. Patrick's weekend offering originals and reproductions of recent works by local painters. The open house will continue through the weekend: Friday from 6 to 9; Saturday from 10 to 8 and Sunday from 12 to 6.

Gallery owner, Norman Crump, a former harbor boat captain, retired 15 years ago from the Thompson Island run to devote full time to painting.

Crump's contemporary oil paintings of old familiar South Boston scenes are hung in living rooms on virtually every block in Southie as well as in homes of former residents, who now live away from 'home'.

His canvases feature popular views of Castle Island, the yacht clubs, Dorchester Heights and many other local scenes.

Crump's huge mural of the monument at Dorchester Heights was a highlight of last fall's South Boston Reunion at the Fleet Pavilion. The mural was hung as the backdrop for the entertainment stage. Crump painted the 25' X 40' canvas in less than two days on the gym floor of the Gate of Heaven School.

YOUR CAT'S TUMMY TROUBLES

While people tend to vomit only when they are ill, vomiting is more common in cats. Even a cat showing no signs of illness may vomit.

Two common causes of feline vomiting are stomach upset from overeating and hairballs.

If the vomiting occurs after eating, the cat may be throwing up undigested food. This problem is more common in cats whose owners feed them only at certain times of the day, which may condition a cat to overeat.

Owners can alleviate the problem by serving smaller portions of food throughout the day.

A different brand of food may also help.

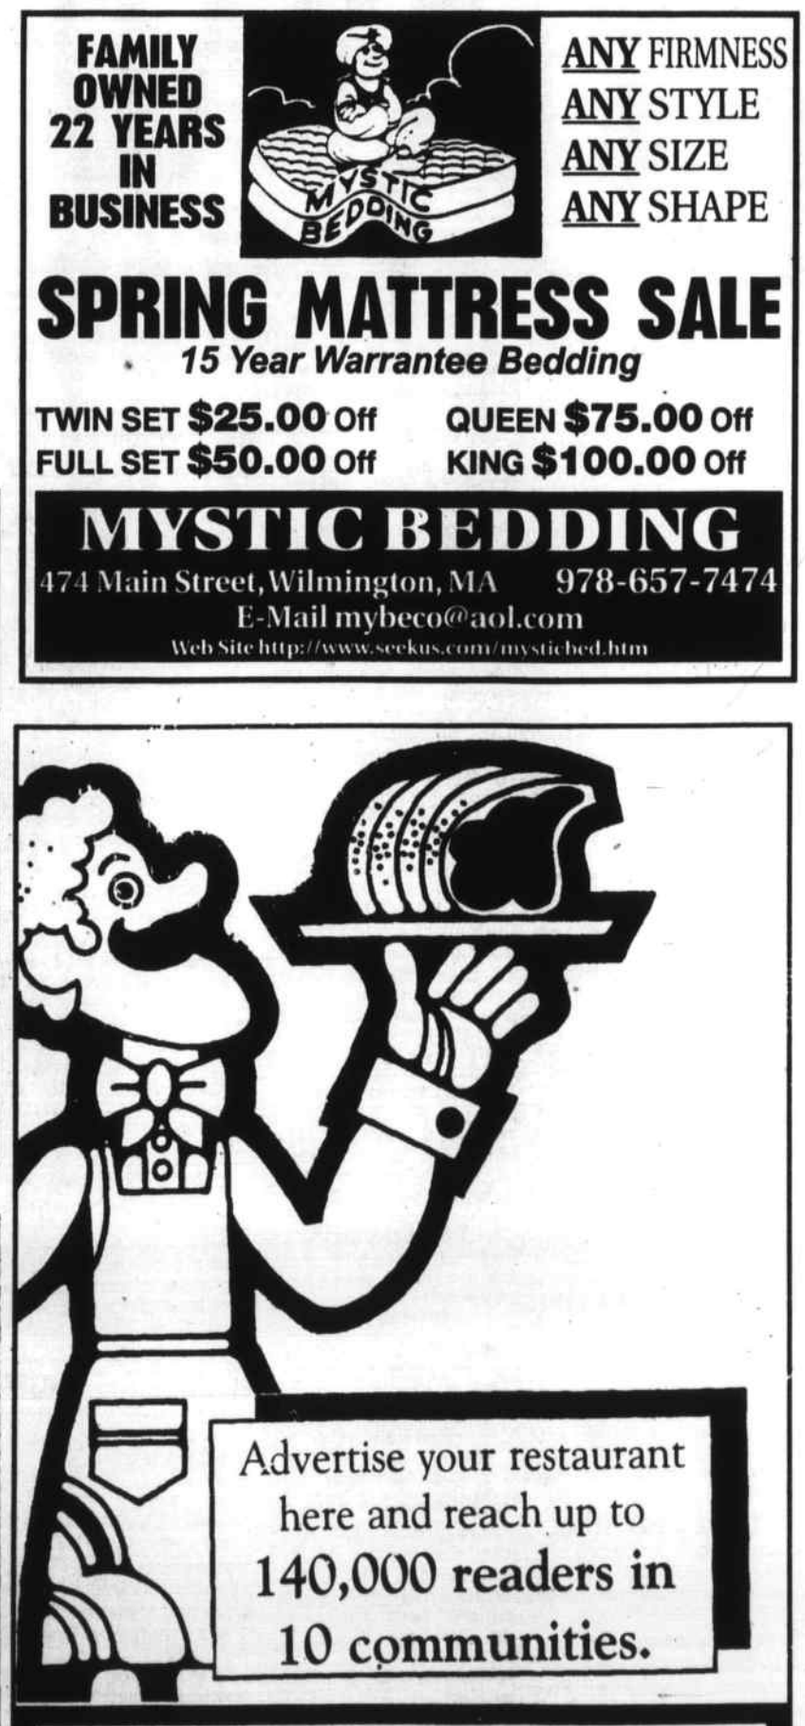

To prevent hairballs, give the cat a hairball lubricant on an empty stomach and comb and brush it frequently.

P.S. Seek medical attention for a cat that vomits a green or orange liquid (bile) or that is also experiencing weight loss, diarrhea and lethargy.

You can prevent many problems in your cat, as well as other pets, with preventive care from your veterinarian. We welcome appointments and are always happy to answer questions on pet care at:

"Winchester attorney Margot A. Clower, who practices family and probate law, is among the attorneys on the 'Massachusetts' Ten Best for 2000,'" notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Attorney Clower earned her place in the list for her efforts to get child support from a deceased father who had the child out of wedlock.

"The Winchester attorney was also the second Winchester attorney to earn the award. In 1998, Attorney John T. Montgomery of Winchester also made the list for his efforts with Ropes & Gray in winning a U.S. Supreme Court decision regarding Congress' power to impose retroactive liability on a company, as well as for convincing a federal judge to strike down a Massachusetts law requiring HMOs to provide unlimited prescription-drug benefits to the elderly.

"A brief description of Lawyers Weekly 'Top Ten' list is as follows: Margot A. Clower - A Family and Probate Lawyer, Clower influenced a significant probate decision in the L.W.K. vs. E.R.C. case where the estate of a deceased father was ordered to continue paying child support for a disinherited, minor daughter born out of wedlock. Law Office of Margot A. Clower, Winchester."

Grass greener outside Lynnfield?

"Raymond Grady, 3 Candlewood Rd., met with the Selectmen recently and discussed the provision in the charter which, he said, violates town employees' rights as citizens to run for elected office with the exception of selectman," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"The board agreed that it appeared to be an issue of fairness and agreed to his request to name a small committee of no more than five members to review the issue. The Selectmen said they did not want to get involved in questioning the constitutionality of the charter, but agreed to look at it from the fairness point of view.

"In a recent letter to the Selectmen, Grady said, 'This is a violation of the Constitution of the United States of America and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, particularly the rights of citizens to vote and run for public office. It also violates for all citizens the right to vote for someone denied the right to run for public office,' he stated.

"Grady says the Town Charter does not allow a police officer or firefighter, part-time or full-time to run for any office such as school board, library trustee, planning board, or housing authority.

"He told the Selectmen the federal government places no restrictions on where one is employed regarding running for office.

"'I challenge Town Counsel Peter Gorshel to speak before the people of this town to where he's getting his data and on what law his decision is based,' Grady commented.

"In April, 1995 call firefighter John Walsh ran unopposed and was elected to the School Committee although prior to the election, but after the ballots were printed, Gorshel ruled he would have to give up his 20-year position on the Fire Department if he wished to serve.

"Walsh appealed Gorshel's ruling to the Attorney General's office which said municipalities may prevent paid employees from holding elected positions.

"'This is a serious issue,' Grady stated. 'When you deprive a person the right to run for public office you deprive the people the right to vote for that person....'

"Grady said he would also discuss with the Planning Board the restriction in the bylaws prohibiting political signs which has not been enforced by the town since similar restrictions in other towns have been struck down by the courts."

Notes From S-8

the fall of 2001, students can choose to learn such topics as basic network design, topologies, router theory and technologies, LAN (local area network) and WAN (wide area network) theory and design.

"The students will enroll in this four-semester program, so juniors will be targeted. A dedicated computer lab with trained instructors will work with classes on the web-based curriculum. Students who complete the course will find a wide variety of career paths open to them, said O'Neil...."

Volunteer for hearing study

Deborah Dempesy, M. A., CCC-A, FAAA is seeking volunteers for a hearing study that will be conducted at her practice at the Family Medical Center of Winchester Hospital in Wilmington.

The objective of this study is to continue to evaluate the technological advances of the Songbird Disposable Hearing Aid. Qualified subjects include anyone who suspects hearing loss or has a confirmed hearing loss, but have not yet decided to purchase hearing aids. Candidates for the trial must have no medical ear problems, ear pain, ear drainage or active ear disease.

Included in the study, for candidates who qualify, is a free hearing test. The confidentiality of all participants is guaranteed. This is not a solicitation.

The procedure will include a brief telephone interview to determine candidacy for the study. Following a free hearing test and otoscopic examination, subjective and objective measures of hearing problems will be assessed using standardized research tools. Qualified subjects will be given new prototype hearing aids to wear for two weeks. This appointment may take one and a half to two hours. At the end of the two week trial, subjects will return

Thinking green...

12 reasons to be green (with envy) in Reading

"A select group of America's teachers are being honored by their toughest critics, their former students, in the sixth edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 2000," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"All of the approximately 114,000 teachers being honored were selected by their former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students, or The National Dean's List, publications which recognize five percent of the nation's high school and college students respectively.

"Paul Krouse, publisher of Who's Who Among America's Teachers said, 'there is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. In this publication we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students.'

"Reading educators (note: some teach in Reading, others live in Reading) honored in Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 2000 include: d'Entremont, Gary Joseph, Reading Memorial; Bean, Jane C., Hannah Elementary; Belniak, Carolyn E., Billerica Memorial; Brenner, Joan H., Bunker Hill Community College; Gramling, David Karl, Austin Prep; Guenard, Debra J. Lizotte, Summer Street Elementary; Hodin, Lori S., Swampscott; Lautman, David, Lexington High School; Litterio, Eileen Shine, Alice Barrows School; Mulligan, Joseph Paul, Reading Memorial; O'Leary, Dorothy Ann, Northeast Metro Regional; Ryan, Jeffrey Robert, Reading Memorial."

In the 'green' in Stoneham

"The Stoneham Business and Community Education Foundation awarded seven grants in its fall grant period," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"This is the largest award in the Foundation's history since beginning awards in 1994. The mission of the Foundation is to fund creative and innovative projects to promote the personal and educational growth of the Town's youth, that might not otherwise be funded within an organization's annual budget. The Foundation received thirteen applications for funding in excess of $11,000. All of the grants submitted conformed to the mission of the Foundation and, except for the limited funds available, the Foundation would have funded them all. The following grants were awarded:

"Stoneham Middle School: The largest single grant in the history of the Foundation ($2,250) was made to the Middle School on a challenge basis. The Middle School must obtain the remainder of the program costs via other sources. The grant is to partially fund a professional development program for faculty and parents to address bullying and teasing. Young adolescence is the prime age for self-discovery, finding your niche, and teasing those who are different. The school strives to foster an environment of acceptance and an appreciation of diversity. Bullying and teasing is still a day-to-day occurrence at the middle school level. The purpose of this program is to educate the adults in the building and parents on how to rid the school atmosphere of bullying, teasing, and harassing behaviors.

"St. Patrick's School: Three different grants were awarded by the Foundation for the following programs: Lowell Industrial Learning Experience; Storytelling and writing with Tom McCabe; Brown Bag Opera 'La Perichole' (Pre-K to grade 3), 'Magic Flute' (grades 4 to 8).

"Robin Hood School: Native American Lifeways Program.

"Central School: 'We've Come a Long Way Stoneham.'

"Stoneham Public Library: Diane Edgecomb, Storyteller. The program by nationally recognized storyteller, Diane Edgecomb will be performed at the Library in April to help promote National Library Week and serve as the culmination of the Junior Room's series, 'Leaders are Readers.' The program will demonstrate the importance of literacy, learning and imagination.

"The Foundation is the sponsor of the annual Adult Spelling Bee scheduled for Friday March 30, 2001 so mark your calendars.

"For information on the Foundation write to SBCEF, Post Office Box 408, Stoneham, MA 02180."

Green day$ ahead in North Reading

"Students at North Reading High School will soon be able to learn computer networking skills, a major opportunity to combine learning in school with career building skills for information technology in the 21st century," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Known as Network Academy, the initiative is supported by a $10,000 grant from the Verizon Foundation. Christopher Bean, Verizon's Regional Director of Public Affairs for the North Reading area, presented the check to Director of Curriculum and Technology Marcia O'Neil and high school principal Dr. Ann Papagiotas as they toured the school's computer lab with students on Monday.

"Bean said Verizon was favorably impressed with North Reading's application for the grant funds because of the program's obvious educational benefits that meet Verizon's philanthropic goals to aid the communities it serves.

"As explained by O'Neil, Network Academy is a web-based curriculum developed to meet the business world's need for trained IT professionals. When the course is offered in

Move into that dream house and make it your own

Trading a monthly rent check on an apartment in the city for a monthly mortgage payment on a house in the suburbs is still part of the American dream.

Sometimes, ignorance about the inner workings of houses can turn that dream into something of a nightmare.

"As everything went wrong, I began to fashion this illusion that the house was out to get me and wanted us out," Janet Papolos said. She moved to Westport, Conn., from Manhattan with her husband and their two children in 1993.

"My husband and I spent a great deal of time worrying about finances and the emotional impact of the move. But we were totally ignorant about the inner workings of a house — apparently there are some 3,000 components," Papolos said.

A writer with two previous books to her credit, Papolos sensed there was another book in her angst. "The Virgin Homeowner: The Essential Guide to Owning, Maintaining, and Surviving Your First Home"@ (Norton, $25) is the result.

Using her own mistakes and learning curve as a spine, Papolos humorously initiates readers into the workings of houses. She moves from the home inspection through plumbing, electricity, septic systems, roofing problems, ventilation, infestations, and home security and safety issues, among other topics.

Although interior decoration is not covered in the book, this seemingly less essential aspect of the home creation experience was crucial.

"What I found out, and I wish I had known when we moved in, is that you can change the space for yourself," the author said.

"At first, I could not visualize using the rooms in a different fashion from what the former owners had established. I felt it was written in stone what each room could be and I didn't have the visual imagination to move beyond what was there."

The first break with the past came one hot summer day when Papolos was preparing for a dinner party. Instead of setting the table in the steamy dining room, she moved it to the air-conditioned solarium so guests could dine in comfort.

"We found that the party conversation flowed much better in that room," Papolos recalled. After that, she began to experiment with rearranging her rooms and spaces.

She hung photographs of the children and her husband's paintings (he's a psychiatrist, painting is his hobby) on the walls. She also began to address annoying minor flaws, such as noise.

"When the children had on the television set in their room, it could be heard throughout the first floor. We changed the door from builder's hollowcore to paneled solid wood, and suddenly it got much quieter," Papolos said.

"Who would know a fairly modest expenditure could make such a difference?"

Smaller steps whetted Papolos' appetite for something major, and the living room was the obvious choice.

"The living room furniture from our apartment was too small for the new living room, and it didn't look right," Papolos said.

The couple bought a new sofa and hired a decorator who designed a new mantelpiece for the fireplace and a glass coffee table with an iron base. She also found them a bargain in a large Oriental-style rug dating from the 1930s for $1,800.

"The rug gave us the warmth and color we needed in the room, which was so big it felt like a gymnasium. We also followed her suggestions and added brass accessories to warm up the room," Papolos said.

Maybe it was simply the passage of time, but redecorating the living room helped Papolos feel truly at home in her spacious new surroundings. It liberated her natural energies and her new enthusiasm resulted in a book contract with a nice advance from the publisher.

"I used the advance to build a new front entry, and it has changed the house," said Papolos. "Who knew an entry could be so essential?"
